Saloon Keepers Generally Are Obeying the Provisions of the Ordinance.

THEIR PROGRAM CARRIED OUT

Guthrie, Walsh and Devine Cited to Appear Before the Mayor for Defying the Law—Crowds Watched Eagerly for Developments.

Chief Thompson and Officer Morris last evening made the rounds of a number of the uptown saloons, for the purpose of ascertaining how well the new ordinance was being observed.

As had been anticipated the law was being generally observed and no arrests were made. In the Midway a large crowd had congregated, expecting to witness a wholesale raid of all the places in that vicinity. They were disappointed, as nothing of the sort occurred.

A number of the uptown saloonists were put to considerable inconvenience, as the arrangement of the interior of the places would not permit of any radical changes in the architecture on short notice. At one place the proprietor nailed up a partition door communicating with the restaurant at the rear, and patrons were compelled to enter the dining room from the alley.

As had been previously arranged, A. R. Guthrie, J. C. Walsh and D. A. Devine were notified at 10 o'clock last night to appear at city hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at which time the first steps will be taken in the three test cases to be handled by the three gentlemen.

Solicitor Gaston and Mayor Davidson visited two of the places this morning and made examinations of the interior arrangement of the rooms.

MAN AGAINST THE HORSE.

A RACE WITH $10 WAGERED AGAINST THE ANIMAL.

The Victor Was Walter Young And He Now Owns the Horse.

An exciting race took place in Calhoun's addition, East End, Sunday afternoon between a man and a horse.

Walter Young and Bert Shook, two young men of that part of the city, met on the road, and in the course of a conversation, Shook, who was riding a horse, remarked that it was a very speedy animal. Young did not agree with him, and finally a wager was made. Young proposed a bet of $10 against the horse that he could beat the speeder out in a hundred yards. He was to pace off the distance and go on foot, while Shook was to ride the horse.

The affair was pulled off very quietly, and very few knew that it had taken place. The contest was easily won by Young, who now owns the horse.

"SQUIRE ROSE HEARS THE SUIT INVOLVING $100.

Stakeholder Still Has It—Justice's Decision Not Yet Announced.

The case of John Nisson versus Lyman Rinehart was heard in the court of Justice J. N. Rose yesterday afternoon.

Rinehart is charged in the affidavit with having in his possession $100 stake money on a wager, and it is alleged that he "did secrete and convert to his own use the said $100 with intent to defraud."

The evidence submitted by a number of witnesses on both sides was gone over, and when it was finished the justice reserved his decision. The verdict will probably be rendered this evening.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL

BETWEEN FACTIONS IN THE BELL SCHOOL DISTRICT.

The Board Still Against the Birches, But They Are Hopeful.

The two factions which have been at loggerheads in the Bell school district, St. Clair township, since Tom Croft, who taught the fall term last year, thrashed the Birch boys, are still fighting for the control of the school district.

It will be remembered that Croft was reinstated as teacher after his acquittal of the charge brought by the father of the Birch boys. This so intensified the feeling that the Birch element determined to gain control of the board.

The district is controlled by one director and two sub-directors. Yesterday the annual election was held and a sub-director elected from the Birch supporters. He is S. A. Rambo and defeated J. M. Davis by a vote of 24 to 11. However, the board is still in control of the other element, but the Birch people hope to change this by another year.

SUPERB PROGRAM PRESENTED

The Objects of the Organization And What It Is Doing for Members Explained By Clergymen Present. Speech By Hon. P. A. Gavin.

The first annual banquet of the Knights of Columbus of this city was held last evening, and was one of the most pleasing social functions in a long time.

It was held in the spacious rooms of the Carroll club, in the Foutts building, and the arrangement was perfect. The club rooms proper were used to accommodate the large crowd while the program was being rendered. Sir Knight T. J. Duffy announced the various numbers, which were ren-

and amid a mass of beautiful ferns and palms was seated the Mandolin club. It rendered a number of choice selections during the progress of the banquet.

At the center of the arch near the ceiling was a handsome picture, portraying the scene just preceding the landing of Columbus. Just below on the rostrum had been placed an easel on which stood a life-size portrait of Pope Leo XIII. To the right and left of this had also been placed easels containing the likenesses of Fathers Carroll and Smythe. The whole went to make up a scene which was very beautiful.

The banquet tables, three in number, were extended the entire length of the room, and when all were seated almost every chair was occupied.

T. J. Duffy acted as toastmaster, M. E. Miskall having been detained at home by illness in his family.

After a brief address by Mr. Duffy, in which he outlined the aims and objects of the Knights of Columbus, together with their hope for the future, he introduced Father Halligan, of Wellsville, who responded to the toast "The Church." The reverend father's effort was an excellent one, but space forbids an extended report.

Deputy Grand Knight J. H. Grafton responded to "Charity," and although

LONG MARCH FULL OF PERILS

Men Died of Starvation on the Way. Description of an Early Morning Attack By the Insurgents Which Caused a Hasty Hunt for Cover.

James E. Taylor, one of the East Liverpool boys in Uncle Sam's service in the Philippines, sends an interesting account of his experiences in the recent campaigns. He writes that he prefers to tell his story through the columns of the News Review, rather than write personal letters to his many friends here. His letter, which gives an account of a campaign that was full of excitement and peril, is as follows:

On the 4th day of September, 1899, Troop B, of the Fourth regiment of United States cavalry, received orders from headquarters to be ready to leave our barracks the next morning at 7 o'clock for the north line, to reinforce Gen. Lawton. Of course, we knew what that meant. It was to be about five months of hard fighting. The morning of the 5th found us all out of bed at 3 o'clock. We fed our horses, ate our breakfast, and left our barracks at ten minutes of 7. We marched to the railroad depot, loaded our horses on the train, and began a trip by rail which ended at 4 o'clock p. m. at a large town called San Fernando, P. I. There we remained until October 11, when we left for San Isidro, passing while enroute through the towns of Santa Anna, Arayat, and Cabiao. We had three fights before we arrived at San Isidro on October 20. Then we rested until October 27. We then marched to the bridge near Santa Rosa, twelve miles distant, where we had a fight which lasted about two hours. The loss to us was one killed and one wounded. The insurgent loss, as near as we could find out, was 15 killed and 25 wounded. We then made camp for the night and after placing a guard around the camp, lay down to have a much-needed sleep.

The next morning we continued our march to Santa Rosa, twelve miles. There we rested until October 31, then resumed our march toward Talavera. Before reaching the latter place we engaged the insurgents in two skirmishes, which lasted about one half hour each. From October 31 till November 8 we rested at Talavera. During that time we engaged in four small skirmishes dismounted.

On the night of November 7, we had what we have always called the night attack at Talavera. We were quartered in an old stone church, which had the ends of the building torn away, leaving nothing but the roof and two walls standing. Our horses were all tied to a picket line at one end of the church, in direct line with the building. Our kitchen fire was at the other end of the building, but off to one side from the church.

Our chaplain, who was with us, held a meeting the same night and said to us: "Boys, to-morrow I think, from the report the scouts bring in, we will have trouble." When the meeting was over, we all spread our blankets upon the floor—a very wet bed—and went to sleep. About 3:30 in the morning, the Mauser bullets began to sing around our ears. At the same time the word was passed among us that the insurgents had attacked us, and that we were to fall in line to repel the attack. I was troop cook at the time, and was told not to go on the firing line, but to stay with the horses and to have breakfast ready for the men by 6 o'clock in the morning.

As all good soldiers will do, I obeyed the orders. The troop, in the meantime, had fallen in line and had gone upon the firing line. The firing had

SLAV MURDEROUSLY ASSAULTED BY A FELLOW COUNTRYMAN.

Michael Baile, a Slav, employed at the Walker sewer pipe works, was assaulted by John Federish, a fellow countryman, at 6:30 this morning, and may die.

The story, as told by the injured man, is that he was on his way to work and was met by Federish, who, without a moment's warning, walked up to him and, laying hold of his neck, with one hand drew a heavy piece of iron from his pocket and struck Baile repeatedly over the top of the head. According to Baile's statement the assailant had no provocation whatever for the act, as they had never had any trouble.

The man knew he was badly injured and boarded a street car came to this city. He got off at the Diamond and attracted the attention of James McKenna, who conducted him to the office of Justice McLane, after he heard the man's story.

It was about 8:15 when the 'squire reached his office and the complaint was only partially completed when Baile became very ill. He seemed to be in a stupor, and the justice had him removed to the office of Dr. Norris, on Sixth street. His injuries were of a serious nature, consisting of four very ugly wounds on the top of his head.

The physician dressed the wounds and made the injured man as comfortable as possible.

He was not able to go to the office of Justice McLane to sign the document, however, and it was necessary to take the papers to him. Just before noon the man fell into a deep sleep, remaining in that state for several hours. Late this afternoon Constable Miller took him home.

Constable Miller went to Walker this morning and arrested Federish. He is in jail to await the result of his victim's injuries.

DAUGHTER VS. FATHER

She Sues for $1,336 for Services in Caring for Her Aged Parent.

Lisbon, April 9. — (Special.)—A jury was empaneled this afternoon in the case of Nettie Ramsey against Andrew Ramsey. The plaintiff is the daughter of the defendant, who is aged. She wants a judgment for $1,336 for doing general housework and keeping house for him from December, 1891, to November, 1900.

She claims he promised to pay her and says her services were worth $150 a year. The defense claims that she performed the work as a daughter and that no agreement as to pay existed. The parties live about two miles from Lisbon.

Ezra G. Wait, of Salem, Dying at Cleveland of Mysterious Injuries.

Salem, April 9.—Ezra G. Wait, a prominent citizen of Salem, went to Cleveland last Tuesday to serve as juror in the United States court. He was found on the evening of the same day lying unconscious, having fallen and fractured his skull. He was taken to the Lakeside hospital, but was not identified until Saturday.

He still lives, but there is no hope of his recovery. Friends here discredited the opinion of hospital authorities that there was foul play, although he is known to have had considerable money.

John Demmerling Arrested, Fined And Released.

John Demmerling was arrested by Firemen Woods and Rose last evening at his home in Huston addition. John was drunk and abused his wife. When heard by Mayor Davidson he was assessed a fine of $7.60. He arranged to pay up next Tuesday and was allowed to go.

dered in a manner that showed careful preparation.

Prof. Joseph Herrington was on the program for a piano solo, and gave a series of imitations which were much enjoyed.

Miss Katherine Hickey rendered a vocal solo, which, considering her age, was a remarkable effort, showing careful preparation and a great amount of natural ability. Miss Kate Carney accompanied her on the piano.

The rendition of the "Holy City," by James Wheatley, was next announced. Mr. Wheatley possesses a baritone voice of extraordinary quality, and the difficult selection was given in a manner most pleasing to the audience. Miss Elizabeth Hamill accompanied the gentleman, and it is needless to add, did it well.

Then followed a series of most mystifying sleight of hand performances by Prof. Herrington, executed in a manner that could scarcely have been improved upon by a Keller or a Powell.

Miss Catherine Hickey's recitation next on the program, was excellently rendered, demonstrating that while the little lady is a vocalist who can entertain, she is also a reader of exceptional power.

The Acme quartette sang beautifully and so pleased the audience that they were compelled to answer an encore.

Then followed two beautiful overtures by the Peerless Mandolin club, and the literary and musical program was at an end.

At this point the members and their guests adjourned to the banquet hall on the floor above, where about two hours were spent in feasting and speechmaking.

The hall, which takes in the whole of the top floor, was profusely decorated in bunting and potted plants, while the walls were adorned by many paintings appropriate to the occasion. At the head of the banquet tables had been erected an arch extending from one side of the room to the other. This stood at the edge of the rostrum and was draped with the national colors. Behind this arch his remarks were brief, they made a deep impression. He explained the relation which charity bears to the order of Knights of Columbus, showing that this principle is one of the chief objects upon which the organization is founded.

"The Ladies" was responded to by M. J. McGarry in a happy manner. The gentleman closed his remarks by quoting a portion of an address made by one of the most eminent attorneys of the land, in which he paid a high tribute to the ladies.

District Deputy P. A. Gavin, of Toronto, had been assigned "Our Order," and he did the subject full justice. Mr. Gavin is an orator of rare ability, and his address was one of the most eloquent efforts ever listened to in the hall.

Rev. Father Dacey, a member of the Steubenville lodge, was present and made the closing remarks. He spoke of the order and what it was doing toward bringing the members of the church and the priesthood into closer communion with each other. His brief talk was listened to with wrapt attention.

Toastmaster Duffy, in a few well chosen remarks, thanked those present for the attention and indulgence, hoped this would not be the last occasion upon which they would all meet together, and the evening's enjoyment was at an end.

EAST END. NOT ON MISSIONARIES

Does Blame Rest For the Recent Boxer Uprising In the Chinese Empire.

REV. C. W. SWAN INTERVIEWED

Long Acquaintance With the Chinese
People Enables Him to Give an Interesting View of the Situation.
Chinese Govern China Best.

Rev. C. W. Swan, who has just lately returned from China, where he has been engaged in missionary work for
the past seven years, is authority
for some very interesting information concerning missionary work and its
connection with the late Boxer troubles in China.

Mr. Swan was stationed at Lien
Chow, about 300 miles northwest from Canton. He was called to the coast
with other missionaries when the Boxer
trouble broke out, but he is very familiar with the nature of the organization
and the cause of the trouble.

He states that the Boxers are a secret organization composed largely of
the lower classes, and that they extend over the entire Chinese territory. It was their purpose to have the recent outbreak begin simultaneously at different points all over the kingdom,
and their object was to drive all foreigners, both missionaries and others,
out of the country.

They had been secretly stirring up
the anti-foreign feeling for several years, and it became so intense in northern China that the leaders were unable to restrain the masses until
the time set for the outbreak to occur.
In his opinion, many missionaries owe
their lives to the fact that the trouble
commenced when it did. "The cause,"
says Mr. Swan, "of the anti-foreign feeling is the encroachment of the foreign powers and the acquisition of Chinese territory, and not the work
of the missionaries, as has been alleged in this country. The feeling against the foreigners is very intense,
and as the Chinese are an impulsive people, trouble can be stirred up very quickly; but as in the case of the Boxer troubles, it usually dies out as quickly as it is stirred up." When asked his opinion concerning the indemnities now being demanded by the foreign powers, Mr.
Swan said:

"The government of China has already rebuilt a large number of missionary buildings that were destroyed, and that government is perfectly willing to pay a reasonable indemnity to each of the foreign governments, but the revenues of the Chinese government do not amount to much more than the expenses, and under the present conditions, it will be absolutely impossible for their government to pay the enormous indemnities now demanded by the foreign powers. I believe, with a good many others, that China is best governed by the Chinese, and I should not like to see the territory be divided and pass
under foreign control. The Chinese are not a progressive people, but when once they test the advantages of a modern invention, it would be as hard
to persuade them to discard it as it is to induce them to begin it. This has proven to be the case with the telegraph and with the very few railroads
that are now in operation."

Mr. Swan states that the Chinese appreciate the friendship of the United States, and show less animosity toward Americans than any other nationality. He states that many magazine articles on the Chinese question
are printed in the Chinese papers and
read throughout the empire.

AGUINALDO MAY BE MOVED.

Buying Diamonds—Reluctant About Issuing Manifesto.

Manila, April 9.—General MacArthur says it is impossible to make a statement concerning Aguinaldo now.
It is possible that Aguinaldo will soon be removed from the Malacanang palace to a large house, with pleasant grounds, in a fashionable quarter of the city, which is being renovated and prepared for occupancy.

Aguinaldo is purchasing diamonds and other jewelry. He continues to receive certain visitors, but newspaper correspondents are excluded. It is said that the manifesto which Aguinaldo has been preparing has not yet been signed, and it is added that Aguinaldo is reluctant to comply with the conditions.

General Sandico, a former member of Aguinaldo's cabinet, has surrendered to the American authorities at Cabanatuan, in the province of New Ecija. He has a bad record and may be tried.

BRIDE DIED IN HIS ARMS.

Sad Experience of a Chicago Detective In Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, April 9.—Detective Fred
Hayes, of Chicago, and Miss Jeanette
Evans, of Chicago, were married here under distressing circumstances. Miss Evans came here about a week ago to be present at the wedding of her sister in this city. She was taken suddenly ill with the grip, and it was thought she would die on Saturday.
Hayes was notified and arrived Sunday. A marriage license was secured Monday and the ceremony performed while Miss Evans was on her death bed. The scene with the weeping family about the bed was very pathetic.

Soon after the ceremony Miss Evans began sinking. The bride died about 1:30 p. m. The ceremony was performed about 6 a. m. When she was sinking about 1 o'clock he took her in his arms and soon after she breathed her last.

Washington, April 9.—General
Grosvenor, of Ohio, who was making the arrangements for the trip of the Ohio congressional delegation to attend the launching of the battleship Ohio, at San Francisco, was at the white house, in consultation with Secretary Cortelyou.

The delegation will travel in a private car and will go over a route different from that of the president or the Ohio gubernatorial party. They will go to New Orleans from Cincinnati, and expect to join the presidential party at Los Angeles, Cal. The route of the return trip has not been determined.

Big Fire in Ottawa.

Ottawa, April 9.—The Russell house, one of the principal hotels in this city, was afire and there were about 200 guests in the building when the fire broke out. Many of them were forced to leave all their belongings behind them and escape in their night clothing. A theater was also afire.

FOR MONUMENTS TO HEROES.

Commission to Select Sites Met in Washington.

Washington, April 9.—The commission appointed to select sites in Washington for the proposed monuments to Grant, Sheridan and Mc-Clellan met here at Secretary Root's office. The latter, by virtue of his position, is chairman of each commission. Associated with the secretary of war and Senator Wetmore are General Greenville Dodge, on the Grant commission; General Corbin, on the Sheridan commission, and General Ruggles, on the McClellan commission. No decisions have yet been reached, but Secretary Root said the proposed site for the Grant monument in the space south of the state, war and navy building, was still looked upon with favor. The McClellan statue, it is said, probably will be erected in the circle at the intersection of Florida and Massachusetts avenues, and that to Sheridan in the small park at the intersection of E street northwest with Pennsylvania avenue, in front of the National theater.

Burglars Frightened Away.

Medina, O., April 9.—Two burglars, who attempted to rob the private bank of S. W. Clark, at Spencer, were frightened away before securing any money. They left burglar tools after them.

Threatened Shotgun Quarantine.

New Castle, Pa., April 9.—A quarantine will be established against the towns of Sandy Lake and Hendersonville, north of here, where 15 cases of smallpox exist. The state board of health was notified, and a shotgun quarantine is threatened unless prompt measures are taken by that body. Health Officer William Vance has been appealed to, and will consult the state authorities by wire as to the proper course for him to pursue.

EAST END. NOT ON MISSIONARIES

Does Blame Rest For the Recent
Boxer Uprising In the Chinese Empire.

REV. C. W. SWAN INTERVIEWED

Long Acquaintance With the Chinese
People Enables Him to Give an Interesting View of the Situation.
Chinese Govern China Best.

Rev. C. W. Swan, who has just lately returned from China, where he has
been engaged in missionary work for
the past seven years, is authority
for some very interesting information
concerning missionary work and its
connection with the late Boxer troubles in China.

Mr. Swan was stationed at Lien
Chow, about 300 miles northwest from Canton. He was called to the coast
with other missionaries when the Boxer
trouble broke out, but he is very familiar with the nature of the organization
and the cause of the trouble.

He states that the Boxers are a secret organization composed largely of
the lower classes, and that they extend
over the entire Chinese territory. It
was their purpose to have the recent
outbreak begin simultaneously at different points all over the kingdom,
and their object was to drive all foreigners, both missionaries and others,
out of the country.

They had been secretly stirring up
the anti-foreign feeling for several years, and it became so intense in northern China that the leaders were unable to restrain the masses until
the time set for the outbreak to occur.
In his opinion, many missionaries owe
their lives to the fact that the trouble
commenced when it did. "The cause,"
says Mr. Swan, "of the anti-foreign feeling is the encroachment of the foreign powers and the acquisition of Chinese territory, and not the work
of the missionaries, as has been alleged in this country. The feeling
against the foreigners is very intense,
and as the Chinese are an impulsive
people, trouble can be stirred up very quickly; but as in the case of the Boxer troubles, it usually dies out as quickly as it is stirred up." When asked his opinion concerning the indemnities now being demanded by the foreign powers, Mr.
Swan said:

"The government of China has
already rebuilt a large number of missionary buildings that were
destroyed, and that government is
perfectly willing to pay a reasonable
indemnity to each of the foreign governments, but the revenues of the Chinese government do not amount to
much more than the expenses, and under the present conditions, it will be
absolutely impossible for their government to pay the enormous indemni-
ties now demanded by the foreign powers. I believe, with a good many others, that China is best governed by
the Chinese, and I should not like to
see the territory be divided and pass
under foreign control. The Chinese
are not a progressive people, but when
once they test the advantages of a modern invention, it would be as hard
to persuade them to discard it as it is
to induce them to begin it. This has proven to be the case with the telegraph and with the very few railroads
that are now in operation."

Mr. Swan states that the Chinese
appreciate the friendship of the United States, and show less animosity toward Americans than any other nationality. He states that many magazine articles on the Chinese question
are printed in the Chinese papers and
read throughout the empire.

WALKER IN CHARGE OF MILLS

Palmer to Have Charge of Sales.
Gayley to Have Charge of Docks and Mines—Pennsylvania Steel Co. Bought Iron Ore Interests.

Cleveland, April 9.—The Leader to-day was expected to say:
"Information was obtained from several sources here today that the United States Steel corporation had appointed Mr. Gayley, of the Carnegie company, as first vice president in charge of docks and mines; W. R. Walker, metallurgical engineer for the American Steel and wire company, as second vice president, in charge of the operation of mills, and W. P. Palmer, president of the American Steel and Wire company, as third vice president, in charge of sales. The same sources are authority for the statement that the various companies absorbed into the United States Steel corporation will maintain separate organizations as heretofore, with the policies of the various departments being dictated by one of the three gentlemen mentioned, whose headquarters will be in New York. The matter of taking care of the fleet has not been fully decided, but general supposition now is that the steel trust will select a manager from its own ranks, instead of accepting the services of a middleman, as has been the supposed policy."

New York, April 9.—The Herald was expected to say today:

"In an effort to fortify its position against the United States Steel corporation, the Pennsylvania Steel company has purchased for cash the entire $5,000,000 worth of stock of the Spanish-American Iron company. It is understood that the transaction involved a sum of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

"The Spanish-American Iron company, of which Charles F. Rand is president, has since 1895 been shipping ores to this country from Cuba, mining about 325,000 tons a year. The Pennsylvania Steel company, which uses about 1,000,000 tons a year, has been taking practically all the Spanish-American concern's product, and has now bought it outright so as to have an important source of ore supply in its hands.

The Spanish-American concern owns the Lena and Magdalena groups of mines not far from Santiago de Cuba, and the Providencia, Berraco and Fausto groups, which are being developed. Their property includes the line of railroad from the mines to the sea and about four and one-half miles; the entire seaport town of Daiquiri, with its harbor and the steel loading pier extending into Daiquiri bay. The present purchase comprises about 20 mining claims and 5,000 acres of land."

REAL GAINSBOROUGH PORTRAIT.

Agnew So Admitted—Denied Some Assertions.

Liverpool, April 9.—C. Moreland Agnew, upon his arrival here on the steamer Etruria, admitted that he had the Gainsborough portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire.

Mr. Agnew said the statement to the effect that "Pat" Sheedy had anything to do with the recovery of the Gainsborough picture of the Duchess of Devonshire are not true, and that he, Mr. Agnew, did not pay money in America. The bill for the detective work in the United States will be paid through Scotland Yard.

"The papers are filled with many misleading statements concerning the Gainsborough," added Mr. Agnew. "I went to America with many misgivings, after so many years of search. When I reached New York I found it necessary to proceed to Chicago, where I met the Pinkertons. By the most natural process in the world the portrait was turned over to me by them. The simple statement that it had been recovered in one of the western states was in accordance with instructions from Scotland Yard. "So far as I am concerned, the history of the picture during its detention for a quarter of a century is as much a mystery as it is to the rest of the world. The portrait is in as perfect a state of preservation as any Gainsborough I ever saw. All stories implicating a former American millionaire, who is now destitute, are new to me. All I know is that the picture was given me in Chicago, and that it is the original portrait."

A somewhat nervous English tourist touches for the genuineness of the following incident of Irish traveling: The train arrived some 20 minutes late at a small station, and the engine driver inquired of the station master, "Did the express go by yet, Tim?" "It did not," was the answer. There was indecision on the part of the engine driver for a moment when he cheerfully exclaimed, "Ah, well; we must chance it," as he blew the whistle and started off on the single line.—London Outlook.

DR. CHALFANT RESIGNS

Will Leave Pastorate of Park Avenue Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, April 9.—The Rev. Dr. George W. Chalfant offered his resignation as pastor of the Park Avenue Presbyterian church. The announcement struck the people of the large congregation like a clap of thunder out of a clear sky, as the congregation is entirely harmonious and greatly attached to Dr. Chalfant.

There were few dry eyes in the audience as the people began to realize the full portent of Dr. Chalfant's words. Following so soon after the resignation of Dr. Kumler, Dr. Chalfant's action has stunned the Presbyterianism of the East End. He is a pillar in the Pittsburg presbytery, and the discussion among the Presbyterian preachers revealed but one mind, that of the most profound regret, but accompanied with an expression of the most earnest hope that Dr. Chalfant will make his permanent home in this city, so that the presbytery may not be deprived of his invaluable services in all departments of church work.

Dr. Chalfant undertook to resign about five years ago, but the people put big blocks in the way, and in view of their unanimous and earnest desire he decided to remain a little longer. He now completes about 20 years as pastor of the Park Avenue church, and he says he deems this a fitting time to close his work. He kept his secret so well that not even the elders of his church knew of his contemplated action. He had intimated his desire to Dr. Kumler recently when congratulating Dr. Kumler on his wise course. He has been in the ministry over 40 years and was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Martins Ferry, in Ohio, about 20 years before coming to Pittsburg. He is the only pastor the large and influential Park Avenue church has had and he started in with a small membership. The present membership of the church is 600.

Since he came to the church he has built the present fine edifice, which is remarkably well equipped for all kinds of church work. The building has been repaired and improved several times.

Dr. Chalfant has been crowned several times with high honors. He was moderator of the synod of Pennsylvania at its meeting in Parkersburg about three years ago, and he has frequently been spoken of as a candidate for moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, but he never permitted the use of his name. He made a trip to China about two years ago and has been in demand since to make addresses on the subject. Two of his sons are missionaries in China and another son is pastor of the large Presbyterian church at Ashtabula, O. Another son is a lawyer in this city and one of the 10 elders in the Park Avenue church and leader of the choir.

To Keep Butter Sweet.

One can keep butter sweet a long time, even in a hot room where it is half melted, by keeping it covered with brine made by putting into boiling water all the salt it will take up. Then let it cool and pour over the butter. Meat may be preserved in the same way. To be sure, it will become rather salt, but when you wish to use it take it out of the brine the night before and lay it across two spoons or sticks to lift it from the bottom of the dish in which you wish to soak it and then cover it with fresh water. The salt will then settle out of the meat, and it will freshen nicely. You throw meat or fish into the bottom of a vessel and cover it with water, and it will freshen very little, for the salt does not fall out, but only to the lower side.

EXPANSION AT HOME.

An interesting sign of the times is seen in items like the following which appears in the Lisbon Patriot: "We really have great distress here now. It is caused by lack of dwelling houses. Many families cannot be housed at all; others have to live in one or two rooms." The paper goes on to state that a hundred new families are coming on account of the new pottery and that preparations must be made to receive them.

The form of distress complained of by our Lisbon contemporary is one that has its compensations and will speedily work out its own relief. It isn't the sort that prevailed during the Cleveland administration, when industrial towns had more demand for soup houses than for dwelling houses and when workers, instead of flocking in, trooped out if they could get the money to do so.

Scores of Ohio towns share in a greater or less degree the prosperity which appears to have struck our county seat. The columns of the News Review daily show the growth of East Liverpool; scarcely a day passes that the arrival of from one to half a dozen new families in the city is not chronicled. The scarcity of houses is so great that complaints are heard in every quarter. Dwellings are rented before they are finished; sometimes, indeed, before the foundations are laid. The growth of the town is almost phenomenal, considering that it is not the result of any fictitious boom, but is of the steady enduring sort.

And it is not Columbiana county alone which is enjoying the benefits of healthy expansion. All through eastern Ohio industrial communities are telling the same story. Down at Steubenville, for instance, where slowness has become proverbial, there has been an awakening and real estate holders are at last finding that their investments are profitable. Extensive building operations are in progress and houses for rent are in such demand as to make them more valuable than ever before. New industrial plants are building all along the Ohio valley; new coal territory is being bought up for development, while innumerable railroads are either projected or building.

Indeed, looking the whole field over, it becomes apparent that the prosperity which set in soon after the first inauguration of William McKinley as president bids fair to be increased and intensified during his second term. Workingmen as well as capitalists have abundant reason for rejoicing and turning to account the advantages now before them.

ONE PENALTY OF FAME.

Andrew Carnegie, who has preached many a sermon on the blessings of adversity, would now fain enjoy the blessings of obscurity. But he cannot, and his despair is almost comical. All Europe has heard of him and marveled at the manner of man he is. Last week he was discovered in a French fishing village, and, according to news dispatches, was "so besieged by delegates from all sorts of charities, schools and societies, who came not only from France, but from England and every country in Europe, that he is seriously contemplating an early escape to the seclusion of his Scotch castle." The delightful little French resort has been made almost hateful to him because of the importunities of beggars of one sort and another. Even on his way across the sea he did not escape the gift-seekers. People found him out and tried to interest him in this or that philanthropic enterprise.

While all this must be annoying to a man seeking seclusion and healthful rest, Mr. Carnegie has invited it by his benefactions to the world. His position has its compensations, and there are few men who would not be glad to have millions to give away, even though they knew they must be subjected to an endless amount of needless advice as to how and where to give them. Obscurity is oftentimes valuable, but Mr. Carnegie, with all of his money, cannot purchase it, because his own generous nature has made the thing impossible. Those who have no millions can find some consolation in reflecting on the cares which poverty enables them wholly to escape.

THE FOOLS STILL LIVE.

The fools are not all dead yet. Some of them have money, and though they are soon parted from it, they get rid of it in a way that advertises their folly. Ithaca, N. Y., although the seat of a university, is not free from imbeciles with a taste for notoriety. One of these is a woman, if a dispatch from the Empire state city is to be believed. The story runs that Stella Miller's pet dog Fido died a few days ago; that an elegant casket was built for the dead dog and a soft, silken pillow was laid therein. An undertaker was there, dressed in the habiliments of woe and "weeping men and women"—here is where the proof comes in that fools abound even in classic Ithaca—"stood about the casket, which was adorned with costly flowers. The casket cost $35 and the silk cushion $152. A pianist furnished the music. A minister was called, but"—all honor to the minister—"he refused to officiate."

Isn't the whole story a nauseating evidence of perverted mentality, of sentimentalism gone mad? It is proper enough to show decent respect to a departed pet, and it may be that Fido was as worthy of a costly funeral as some bipeds who are honored with one. But the woman, who, living in a great city, where distress and poverty abound, could find no better use for $200 than to spend it on a dog's funeral seems to us a fit subject for a commission in lunacy.

The Populists are reported watching Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, to see if he is the right sort of presidential timber. When he lands in their party he will be in the proper place.

"Here's looking at you" is no longer the popular phrase among saloon habitués. There is an uncomfortable truth embodied in it.

The screen ordinance went into operation last night. Contrary to expectations, it did not decrease the number of arrests.

Unscreened drinks are quite as likely to have snakes in them as the other kind.

THE HOUSEWIFE'S WORST ENEMY.

Early in May the miller or moth fly begins to deposit eggs. As soon as they are hatched the moth worms begin feeding on the woollens and continue until they are full grown. They then spin themselves into cocoons and change, in them, to the miller or moth fly. This requires from six to eight weeks.

To guard against moth, woollens should be packed away early in May or earlier if possible. Before putting away, sun, beat and brush thoroughly, then pack away with a liberal supply of moth balls or camphor. Woolen or furs so packed if free from eggs before putting away are practically moth proof. Price

Grmphor 50c a oz.
Moth Balls 10c a lb.
Turpentine 10c a pint.
Insect Powder 50c oz. 15c 1-4 lb.

ACTION FOR ALIMONY

DECIDED IN FAVOR OF MRS. WELLS, OF WELLSVILLE.

Washingtonville Marshal Sued for $500
Damages—Other Court Matters.

Lisbon, April 9.—(Special)—Mrs. Sarah M. Wells, of Wellsville, recently filed an action for alimony against Wesley C. Wells. Her case was heard in court this morning. Judge Hole held that by reason of the abandonment and non-support of the defendant, the wife is entitled to alimony. Sheriff Noragon has in his possession $170.25 belonging to the defendant, and was ordered by the court to pay it to the plaintiff.

Charles L. DeRodes, of Franklin Square, has entered suit for a divorce from Sylvia DeRodes, to whom he was married in November, 1898. The wife is charged with wilful absence and with disregard of marital duties. They have no children.

Marshal George Charlton, of Washingtonville, has been sued for false arrest by Irvin Cook, of that village. Cook claims he was arrested by Charlton last month, without cause or provocation, and kept locked up for over four hours. Charlton has been marshal since April, 1900, and William Dalrymple and J. D. Smith are his bondsmen. Cook wants $500 to pay for injury to his reputation.

There was a hearing in court this morning on the account of B. S. Ambler, receiver, in the case of H. Greiner & Son versus the Salem Church Organ company. The court approved and confirmed the account and made distribution of all the proceeds of the sale. The receiver was allowed $1,000 for his services.

The bar list for the April term of court was issued this morning and contains 328 civil cases. The criminal list is not yet completed.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Sarah E. Surles.

Miss Sarah E. Surles, nee Till, died at her home on the Calcutta road last evening, after a long illness. She was 42 years old and was born in Louisville, Ky. At 18 years of age she married Mr. Surles and has since resided here. She leaves a husband, but no children. Mrs. Surles was a valued member of the Presbyterian church. The funeral will be held on Wednesday from the family residence.

George Barnish.

George Barnish died at his home on Prospect street this morning at 2 o'clock, of heart trouble. He was 49 years of age and was born in Burslem, Staffordshire, England. He had lived in this country about 24 years. He leaves a wife in this country and a mother in England.

Bryan Child.

A three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Bryan died at their home on Second street last night after a short illness with pneumonia. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Aloysius' church. Interment will be made at the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Bentley.

Mrs. Margaret Bentley, aged 89 years, died at her home on Fairview street last night, death being caused by infirmities of old age. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment will be made at Spring Grove cemetery.

Fifty Years a Priest.

Father Halligan, of Wellsville, and several other priests from this locality will go to Tiffin on Wednesday, where they will assist in the celebration of the golden jubilee of Rev. Father Healey, of that city. The father has been in the ministry for 50 years, and the occasion will be fittingly celebrated. This is the first golden jubilee in the history of the diocese.

Will Make White Ware.

John Sant has received word that the Rapp Bros. pottery at Morton, Ill., will hereafter manufacture white ware. The plant has been making yellow and Rockingham ware.

EXPANSION AT HOME.

An interesting sign of the times is seen in items like the following which appears in the Lisbon Patriot: "We really have great distress here now." It is caused by lack of dwelling houses. Many families cannot be housed at all; others have to live in one or two rooms." The paper goes on to state that a hundred new families are coming on account of the new pottery and that preparations must be made to receive them.

The form of distress complained of by our Lisbon contemporary is one that has its compensations and will speedily work out its own relief. It isn't the sort that prevailed during the Cleveland administration, when industrial towns had more demand for soup houses than for dwelling houses and when workers, instead of flocking in, trooped out if they could get the money to do so.

Scores of Ohio towns share in a greater or less degree the prosperity which appears to have struck our county seat. The columns of the News Review daily show the growth of East Liverpool; scarcely a day passes that the arrival of from one to half a dozen new families in the city is not chronicled. The scarcity of houses is so great that complaints are heard in every quarter. Dwellings are rented before they are finished; sometimes, indeed, before the foundations are laid. The growth of the town is almost phenomenal, considering that it is not the result of any fictitious boom, but is of the steady enduring sort.

And it is not Columbiana county alone which is enjoying the benefits of healthy expansion. All through eastern Ohio industrial communities are telling the same story. Down at Steubenville, for instance, where slowness has become proverbial, there has been an awakening and real estate holders are at last finding that their investments are profitable. ### IT EXCITED CHESTER

A REPORT THAT THE ATOMIZER MAN WAS DEAD.

Instead, He Is Able to Be About His Business—Arrests Are Probable.

The report was current in Chester this morning that George W. Wood, the atomizer man, who was severely beaten by some of the clay hands at the Taylor, Lee & Smith pottery yesterday morning, had died from the effects of the injuries received, and that Deputy Sheriff O. O. Allison had been notified to place those connected with the affair under arrest. The fact that Sheriff C. F. Allison was also in town gave color to the story, and for a time considerable excitement prevailed.

The officers would say nothing about the matter, but it was soon learned that the report of the man's death was untrue. It is highly probable that arrests will be made, as the names of the guilty parties are known to the officers.

Mr. Wood's injuries consisted of bad bruises about the face and head, but he was not seriously hurt. He was able to be at work in East Liverpool today.

CHESTER ELECTION.

Much Interest Shown in the Coming Contest for Town Offices.

Much interest is being shown over the election of the first town officers in Chester, which will take place May 7. Robert Dunn is announced for mayor, and inquiry made among the residents would seem to indicate that he will receive a very large vote. So far no opposition is announced, though the friends of "Bud" Hilliard say he will come out later. Five councilmen are to be chosen, and although mention has been made of many suitable persons it is impossible to suggest the name of a probable candidate at this time.

The strongest fight is promised in the race for recorder. Thomas Bambrick, Frank Huff and John Marshall are all candidates, it is said, for this office. All three are well qualified to fill the position, and as the fight will not be conducted along party lines, the contest will no doubt be quite a lively one.

CHANGED HER MIND.

Miss Belle Johnson Did Not Poison Herself.

Miss Belle Johnson, who telephoned to Claud Figley yesterday, to come over immediately if he wished to see her alive, evidently changed her mind about taking laudanum, for she was visiting friends near Chester last evening.

Her lover relented after considering the matter and called on the lady yesterday, with the result that the taking of the laudanum was probably postponed indefinitely.

Park Improvements.

Engineer Smith and a force began tearing down the steps at the park this morning. They will be rebuilt in a more suitable style. Another carload of coaster and fountain material arrived this morning and work on these improvements is being pushed rapidly.

SOUTHSIDE AFFAIRS.

Eighth street has just been opened up from the river to the railroad.

Adam Clark has accepted a position as night inspector at the power house, and will begin his duties next Saturday.

The American Mechanics initiated one candidate at the meeting last night.

Work on the oil well on the Blazier farm is delayed by the loss of the tools. The well is expected in week after next.

T. R. Cunningham has leased the building used for school purposes to Rev. Mr. Phipps and wife, who will take possession next Monday.

Notice of Meeting.

All members of Local No. 32, Printers and Transferers, are requested to meet at Red Men's hall Wednesday evening, April 10, at 7:30 sharp. Business of importance to every printer in the city to be transacted. A full attendance desired. By order could prepare breakfast, built fires and started to work. I had a large can that held hard tack in it at one time, and was using it in which to make coffee. I had placed it upon four large stones, filled it with water and was making a fire under it, when the firing started once more and a Mauser bullet passed within six inches of my ear and passed clear through the coffee can.

I began to think that was too close for my comfort, so I moved about five feet to a large tree, intending to get my carbine and belt, which I had placed there, when another bullet imbedded itself in the tree about six inches from me. I lost no time getting myself under cover, and did not start any more breakfast until daylight.

Meantime the troop had returned from the firing line, bringing eight wounded natives, and had also left a large number lying dead upon the firing line. After we had eaten our breakfast of canned salmon, hard tack and coffee, without sugar or milk, we mounted our horses on our way to San Jose, twenty miles. Before reaching San Jose we had a sharp skirmish which resulted in having one man killed, two men wounded and six horses killed. This was on November 8. The next day we made a scouting trip to Puncan, 14 miles from San Jose, had two small fights, and returned to San Jose. On November 10 we left San Jose for Carranglan, a march of 28 miles, which we made in three days. During these three days we were crossing the largest and roughest mountains on the islands, and were having fierce fighting all of the way.

By the time we had stopped at Carranglan three days we had run short of rations and had to return to San Jose. Before we reached there, we had lost four men from starvation. On December 10, we left San Jose for Sybul. Before our arrival we had a very fierce fight for about two hours, our loss being one corporal and three privates killed, two corporals and five privates wounded. One corporal afterwards died from his wounds. We left Sybul November 11 for Bias-na-Bato, having a small skirmish on the way, with no loss.

We arrived at San Miguel on the 14th, and rested until the 18th of December, when we left for Pasay Cavalry barracks, arriving there at 12 o'clock the night of the 18th, stopping at Pasay until January 3, 1900.

December 19, 1899, a detail of 20 privates from Troop B joined Troop I, and left with Gen. Lawton for San Mateo. Gen. Lawton was brought back to his wife and children a corpse. He was one of the best of men, the bravest of soldiers, and was loved by all who knew him. January 6, when on the march, we had a skirmish near Muntin Lupa, and also one at Binan. We then kept on the move, having skirmishes at Carnnona, at Silan and at Indan, arriving at and taking the town of Niac after a hard-fought battle on January 10, 1900. We resumed our march on the 14th, to San Tomas, San Pablo, and Tiaogang and Rosario, arriving at Pasay January 16. We were very glad to see finished one of the hardest trips made on the islands by any American soldiers.

THE BALL AT WELLSVILLE

Drew a Large Crowd From This City. An East Liverpool Couple Won the Prizes.

The potters of Wellsville held a very enjoyable dance in city hall, in that city, last night. A large number of people from this city were present. The attendance was probably 700, nearly half of it being from East Liverpool. The whole affair passed off most enjoyably.

The prize waltzing contest was participated in by several East Liverpool couples, those taking the most prominent part being Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, Joseph Cassidy and Miss Julia Dunn, Charles Shenkel and Mrs. Terry and James Farish and Miss Maud Beach, of Lincoln avenue. The prizes, both handsome pieces of silverware, were awarded to Mr. Farish and Miss Beach.

"Private John Allen.

Once in a while the author of a play succeeds in catching the exact atmosphere and the result is a brilliant success. Lee Arthur, the author of "Private John Allen," the new play in which Charles B. Hanford appears this season, has an advantage in writing of the south. He is himself a southern man. His types are not mere sketches. The high-mined orator and statesman, John Allen, the Hon. Alex. Lemee, Major Wasworth, Colonel Nat Stone, "Judge" Billy Wassom, "Uncle Si," the faithful negro servant, the sweet and womanly Ruth Blackman, and indeed all the characters are pictures which Mr. Arthur has transcribed from the pages of early memory. This excellent attraction will be the offering at the Grand on next Thursday evening.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

A VARIETY OF TALES PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

The Coon Hunting Club And Its Exploits—Leaves From Reporters' Note Books.

Elmer Dornan, Will Messer, Alf Moore and Clark Cronin, all enterprising youths of Chester, W. Va., met last Thursday evening and formed an organization to be known as the Chester Coon Hunting club, whose object was to "hunt, buy and sell and deal exclusively in coon-hides, for profit, etc." They did not apply for any charter, as they had concluded to keep a good thing to themselves.

It was arranged to take the first hunt on Friday night. These four zealous hunters, together with a pack of about 18 dogs, made up of pugs, scotch-terriers and mastiffs, left Chester at about 9 o'clock to make their first hunt "for profit"—and coons. "I'll bet a chew of Five Brothers for the whole crowd," said Clark, "that we have seven coons by the time we get back." "I'll bet three balls of popcorn that we have eight of them," put in Alf, and the other two offered to gamble even more recklessly on the result.

By the time the boys had reached Hookstown all the merry feeling had worn off and Clark had reduced his guess to two coons, while Alf still held out for three. They started eastward and by the time they had reached Hookstown all the merry felling was gone. They returned homeward without coons, but fortune was destined to throw at least one animal in their way. Shortly before they reached the upper end of Chester the dogs set up a terrific barking. They had gathered in a circle around a small black animal that did not seem inclined to move very fast. "It's a whopper. Let me get a chance at him," yelled Cronin, as he ran forward and leaped on the animal with his boots. The coon happened to be a skunk, but Clark did not discover the fact until it was too late. His father found it out, however, and Clark had to reside in the coalhouse for a time. Alf is looking for a lost hat, while the other two hunters feasted on tobacco and popcorn, in the "club room" of the now defunct Chester Coon Hunting society.

Several prominent East Enders haven't yet got over laughing about a list which a certain ward healer made out during the campaign which preceded the primaries. The would-be politician went to one of the candidates and told him he knew of at least 20 men whose votes could be purchased. The candidate had no idea of going into the hoodling business, but to draw out the ward man he asked: "About how much do you think it would take to buy them?" "You can get every one of them for a drink of whisky," "All right," returned the candidate, "give me a list of the names, and I'll look into the matter." The list was made out, and when the candidate studied it he laughed. Then he showed it to some of his friends and they laughed. Growing bolder, he showed it to some of the men whose names were on it and they smiled sickly smiles. The list included the names of some of the most prominent men in the city. There were business men, professional men and church members—men who would no more touch a drink than they would murder. The ward healer who made it out got neither employment nor money from the man he made it for.

A well known ex-reporter and ex-editor said today: "I hope the base ball men will succeed in finding out after a time what Pitcher 'Win' Mercer's name really is. It is no more William Barclay Mercer than mine is Simon Johnson. His name is George Bartley Mercer. I have it on the best of authority, for his mother, whom I interviewed after 'Win' became a celebrity, told me so. The Bartley comes from the mother's side of the house. He was born in Ohio. How he got the 'Win' matters not; but his front name, with all respect to those who assume to know, is George. Ask him and see if it isn't. It strikes me that would have been the proper way to find out, before writing so much about it."

ALL MEMBERS OF KILMEN'S LOCAL UNION NO. 9 ARE REQUESTED TO MEET AT BROTHERHOOD HALL WEDNESDAY EVENING, 7:30 SHARP. IMPORTANT BUSINESS. GEO. SMITH, SECRETARY. 254-1

THE KAYLOR MEETINGS.

Interest Grows as the Close Draws Near.

Evangelist A. H. Kaylor has entered upon the fourth and last week of his meetings in the First United Presbyterian church with increased interest on the part of both speaker and hearers. This was manifested last night in the large and attentive audience which filled the church, and in the deep earnestness with which the evangelist uttered his message. His theme, the full, free and earnest invitation of the gospel (Rev. 22:17), was an inspiring one. It gave opportunity to show the infinite willingness of God to save, the many agencies He employs to lead men to decision, and the reasonableness as well as duty of man to respond to the invitation of the gospel.

The word so earnestly preached was not spoken in vain, as many in the audience indicated their desire to lead the Christian life, some of whom were led to decide to do so. There was no service this afternoon on account of the sessions of Presbytery in the church. Meeting this evening and each evening during the week. Readers are cordially invited.

Cancer Cured.

Dr. J. W. Gardner, of East Liverpool, O., has discovered in the last year a new remedy for the cure of external cancer. Absorption is the modus operandi. No knife, no caustic, no blood, no pain. My last case of cancer of the scalp was cured in 27 days. Treatment of cancer is largely in the hands of mountebanks. Hence the saying goes, no cure for cancer. It is not true. Thousands upon thousands have passed to the great beyond that should have been cured, and would, had my new absorbent remedy been known. The people delay going to see the doctor because they do not know where to go.

Come and see me. This is much better than writing. If you write, give age, location, advancement, state whether tumor or open cancer, how large and whether suppuration has commenced. I hold a diploma from one of the best colleges in the U. S. Have practiced medicine for 48 years. 255-h

"Private John Allen.

Once in a while the author of a play succeeds in catching the exact atmosphere and the result is a brilliant success. Lee Arthur, the author of "Private John Allen," the new play in which Charles B. Hanford appears this season, has an advantage in writing of the south. He is himself a southern man. His types are not mere sketches. The high-mined orator and statesman, John Allen, the Hon. Alex. Lemee, Major Wasworth, Colonel Nat Stone, "Judge" Billy Wasson, "Uncle Si," the faithful negro servant; the sweet and womanly Ruth Blackman, and indeed all the characters are pictures which Mr. Arthur has transcribed from the pages of early memory. This excellent attraction will be the offering at the Grand on next Thursday evening.

NOTES AND NOTIONS.

A VARIETY OF TALES PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN.

The Coon Hunting Club And Its Exploits—Leaves From Reporters' Note Books.

Elmer Dornan, Will Messer, Alf Moore and Clark Cronin, all enterprising youths of Chester, W. Va., met last Thursday evening and formed an organization to be known as the Chester Coon Hunting club, whose object was to "hunt, buy and sell and deal exclusively in coon-hides, for profit, etc." They did not apply for any charter, as they had concluded to keep a good thing to themselves.

It was arranged to take the first hunt on Friday night. These four zealous hunters, together with a pack of about 18 dogs, made up of pugs, scotch-terriers and mastiffs, left Chester at about 9 o'clock to make their first hunt "for profit"—and coons, "I'll bet a chew of Five Brothers for the whole crowd," said Clark, "that we have seven coons by the time we get back." "I'll bet three balls of popcorn that we have eight of them," put in Alf, and the other two offered to gamble even more recklessly on the result.

By the time the boys had reached Hookstown all the merry feeling had worn off and Clark had reduced his guess to two coons, while Alf still held out for three. They started eastward and by the time they had reached Hookstown all the merry felling was gone. They returned homeward without coons, but fortune was destined to throw at least one animal in their way. Shortly before they reached the upper end of Chester the dogs set up a terrific barking. They had gathered in a circle around a small black animal that did not seem inclined to move very fast. "It's a whopper. Let me get a chance at him," yelled Cronin, as he ran forward and leaped on the animal with his boots. The coon happened to be a skunk, but Clark did not discover the fact until it was too late. His father found it out, however, and Clark had to reside in the coalhouse for a time. Alf is looking for a lost hat, while the other two hunters feasted on tobacco and popcorn, in the "club room" of the now defunct Chester Coon Hunting society.

Several prominent East Enders haven't yet got over laughing about a list which a certain ward heeler made out during the campaign which preceded the primaries. The would-be politician went to one of the candidates and told him he knew of at least 20 men whose votes could be purchased. The candidate had no idea of going into the boodling business, but to draw out the ward man he asked: "About how much do you think it would take to buy them?" "You can get every one of them for a drink of whisky," "All right," returned the candidate, "give me a list of the names, and I'll look into the matter." The list was made out, and when the candidate studied it he laughed. Then he showed it to some of his friends and they laughed. Growing bolder, he showed it to some of the men whose names were on it and they smiled sickly smiles. The list included the names of some of the most prominent men in the city. There were business men, professional men and church members—men who would no more touch a drink than they would murder. The ward heeler who made it out got neither employment nor money from the man he made it for.

A well known ex-reporter and editor said today: "I hope the base ball men will succeed in finding out after a time what Pitcher 'Win' Mercer's name really is. It is no more William Barclay Mercer than mine is Simon Johnson. His name is George Bartley Mercer. I have it on the best of authority, for his mother, whom I interviewed after 'Win' became a celebrity, told me so. The Bartley comes from the mother's side of the house. He was born in Ohio. How he got the 'Win' matters not; but his front name, with all respect to those who assume to know, is George. Ask him and see if it isn't. It strikes me that would have been the proper way to find out, before writing so much about it."

THE KAYLOR MEETINGS.

Interest Grows as the Close Draws Near.

Evangelist A. H. Kaylor has entered upon the fourth and last week of his meetings in the First United Presbyterian church with increased interest on the part of both speaker and hearers. This was manifested last night in the large and attentive audience which filled the church, and in the deep earnestness with which the evangelist uttered his message. His theme, the full, free and earnest invitation of the gospel (Rev. 22:17), was an inspiring one. It gave opportunity to show the infinite willingness of God to save, the many agencies He employs to lead men to decision, and the reasonableness as well as duty of man to respond to the invitation of the gospel.

The word so earnestly preached was not spoken in vain, as many in the audience indicated their desire to lead the Christian life, some of whom were led to decide to do so. There was no service this afternoon on account of the sessions of Presbytery in the church. Meeting this evening and each evening during the week. Readers are cordially invited.

Cancer Cured.

Dr. J. W. Gardner, of East Liverpool, O., has discovered in the last year a new remedy for the cure of external cancer. Absorption is the modus operandi. No knife, no caustic, no blood, no pain. My last case of cancer of the scalp was cured in 27 days. Treatment of cancer is largely in the hands of mountebanks. Hence the saying goes, no cure for cancer. It is not true. Thousands upon thousands have passed to the great beyond that should have been cured, and would, had my new absorbent remedy been known. The people delay going to see the doctor because they do not know where to go.

Come and see me. This is much better than writing. If you write, give age, location, advancement, state whether tumor or open cancer, how large and whether suppuration has commenced. I hold a diploma from one of the best colleges in the U. S. Have practiced medicine for 48 years. 255-h

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT QUERY

Formal Announcement of Death of Representative Cotter Made In the House—Committee Appointed to Attend the Funeral.

Harrisburg, April 9.—A resolution was offered in the house last night by Mr. Corey, of Luzerne, requesting Attorney General Elkin and Secretary of Internal Affairs Latta to inform the house not later than April 17 whether any applications were filed in or warrants granted by the internal affairs department since Jan. 1, 1901, to Albert D. Boyd, Robert E. Umbel, Edward Willson Boyd, Samuel P. Boyd, Wallace H. Miller, Frank M. Fuller, William E. Crow, Charles H. Seaton, Marling G. Miller, O. R. Bromfield, Josiah W. Crow, H. M. Kephart, Woods N. Carr, John J. Collier, Lee Smith and Lewis F. Arensburg, or any of them, for public lands of the commonwealth in beds of rivers or minerals thereunder, and if so whether any such warrants were authorized or issued by direction of the board of property, and if so, by what authority and what act of assembly. The resolution lies over one day under the rules.

Mr. Palm offered the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the law and order committee: That a commission of five be appointed, two from the senate and three from the house, to inquire into the subject of capital punishment with a view to ascertaining its effect toward the repression of crime. This commission shall investigate the subject in the different states of the Union, as well as in foreign countries, and report to the next legislature. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation for their services, but shall be allowed for postage, stationery, etc., a sum not to exceed $200.

Mr. Bliss, of Delaware, offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the secretary of the commonwealth to publish 25,000 copies of the state game laws.

Mr. Harris, of Clearfield, offered a concurrent resolution, which was adopted, that a commission consisting of nine persons learned in the law be appointed by the governor to examine the corporation laws of the commonwealth and the decisions of the supreme and superior courts and to draft and report to the next legislature a general and comprehensive law regulating the incorporation and management of corporations, making as little a change as possible in the provisions of the existing laws, the members of the commission to receive no compensation for their services or mileage, but may be allowed in the general appropriation account not more than $5,000 for necessary expenses.

Mr. Dixon, of Elk, made a formal announcement of the death of Representative P. R. Cotter, of McKean, whose funeral will take place this afternoon at his late home at Eldred. A resolution was adopted that a special session of the house be held on the evening of April 17 to take suitable action on the death of Mr. Cotter and Representative William F. Stewart, of Philadelphia. A resolution was also adopted that a committee of nine be appointed to attend Mr. Cotter's funeral, and that a committee of five be appointed to prepare resolutions expressing the feelings of the legislature on Mr. Cotter's death. The following committee was appointed to attend the funeral:

Messrs. Payne, of McKean; Baker, of Warren; Blumle, of Cameron; Fierth, of Wayne; Brown, of Clarion; Mayne, of Lehigh; Brennen, of Wayne; Moyer, of Lehigh, and Myers, of Cumberland.

The committee on resolutions follow: Messrs. Dixon, of Elk; Mayne, of Lehigh; Koontz, of Somerset; Cooper, of Delaware, and Ikeler, of Columbia.

M. E. CONSTITUTION.

Matter Under Discussion at New York Preachers' Meeting.

New York, April 9.—The Methodist preachers' meeting was chiefly devoted to an informal discussion of the proposed new constitution for the Methodist Episcopal church. The various conferences throughout the country are now voting on the amended constitution. The reverend Dr. J. M. Buckley was strongly opposed to the admission of women to the general conference. The Rev. Dr. Thomas B. Neely spoke in a vein similar to that of Dr. Buckley. Dr. S. F. Upham favored the adoption of the new constitution. President R. S. Pardington, of the New York East conference, was elected president.

TO SAVE CHILDREN

The Rev. Richard W. Lewis Has Resigned as Pastor to So Devote His Time.

Denver, Colo., April 9.—The Rev. Richard W. Lewis, pastor of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, described in detail a vision under the spell of which he tendered his resignation to the astonished congregation. In the vision he saw huge waves dashed by a terrible gale against the church, in which his people were gathered. A child was struggling in the angry waters outside. Facing almost certain death a man plunged into the sea and brought the little one to land.

Mr. Lewis has determined to devote the rest of his life to saving children. The vision confirmed him in a purpose upon which he has been brooding for years. He has been very successful in church work and his parishioners are averse to accepting his resignation, but feel that it is useless to remonstrate.

A CONVICT ESCAPED.

Fled From West Virginia Penitentiary—Maybe Crossed Into Ohio.

Wheeling, April 9.—It came out that Joseph Green, a United States prisoner at the West Virginia penitentiary at Moundsville, had escaped in a daring manner Saturday night, and although bloodhounds have been placed on his trail, he has escaped by crossing the river into Ohio. Green placed a "dummy" in his cell, which deceived the guard, and in the meantime he secreted himself in one of the shops, and later climbed the outer wall and let himself down with a rope. The bloodhounds were placed on the trail and only lost the scent at the point below Moundsville where Green crossed into Ohio.

DROWNED HERSELF.

Minister's Daughter Commits Suicide at New Brighton.

Beaver Falls, April 9.—Miss Agnes Bristow, daughter of the Rev. T. J. Bristow, of New Brighton, in a moment of insanity, caused by sickness, jumped into the Beaver river and was drowned. The young woman was a stenographer and had been ill for some time.

Miss Bristow was 28 years of age and had a fine education. Her sister, Mabel, is a teacher in the Porto Rico schools, and her father was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Somerset, Pa.

The Hot Water Cure.

Boarding House Keeper—A glass of hot water? What can the man want with a glass of hot water? He doesn't shave.

Cook—He wants to drink it. "To drink it? Well, I never!"

"Oh, all the boarders is sending for hot water now three times a day."

"Goodness me! What for?"

"Fur to drink. They calls it the hot water cure. It beats all newfangled notions what come up."

"What does it cure?"

"Oh, they say it really cures everything just splendid."

"Thank fortune it's cheap. Give 'em all the hot water they want, Maria."

"Yes'm."

"So hot water is a great cure, is it? Well, I shan't let any of my boarders get ill for want of medicine. Just put another gallon of hot water in that oyster soap, Maria, and I think you'd better take out the oyster now. It might get too rick."—London Tit-Bits

The happy ass.

The chief beauty of the following poem is that it is both rhyme and blank verse—rhyme according to the spelling and blank verse according to the pronunciation:

Through twilight's gold I heard the wild ass bray
His love song, which resounded o'er the quay.
While he, well knowing that for joy he should
Faint in glee, kicked up the mossy mould,
And with the energy of lusty youth,
Once more let off his everlasting mouth,
Which set on edge two polka dotted calves
Until they, too, opened wide their safety valves
And fled like me, and I flew like the wolf
Or e'en the hit ball in the game of golf.

Cure For Insomnia.

I suppose all of us are suffering from the invasion of electricity. My old friend Bounce, who was a victim of insomnia for 40 years, thinks he sleeps now better than any other man on earth. He lost his way in the Adirondacks and staid overnight in the cabin of a forester. His sleep was the deep sleep of a just man made perfect, and in the morning he found that he had not moved half an inch all night.

"It's the insulation," the forester insisted. "You city folks are killin' yourselves with contact. If you'll break the contact you'll be able to sleep and get your nerves back."

This matter of "contact" was finally explained to mean that our bedposts are in contact with the floors, the

floors with the walls and the walls with mother earth, so that whatever personal magnetism a man has in him goes away in the nighttime, leaving him like a log on his mattress. The forester had obtained four glass insulators from telegraph poles somewhere and screwed them on the posts of his guest bed, so that the electricity could not run away. Bounce the very day he got home insulated his bed, and from that moment to the present his insomnia has been banished. — New York Press.

THE 25 ct. FAMILY DOCTOR.

CEDAR SPRINGS, MICH.

EATON RAPIDS, MICH.

Mrs. Isaac Dunham, a well-known lady of that place, writes: "I cannot praise Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills too much. They did for me what doctors and other medicines could not do. I was troubled with severe disorders of the kidneys and enlargement of the liver. My family doctor treated me the whole of last winter, but did not help me very much, so I gave him up and began using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The result was simply wonderful. I am now strong and healthy again, thanks to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Mrs. Rose Chaffee, a business woman of Eaton Rapids, writes: "For a long time my system was in a terribly weakened state. Biliousness, severe indigestion and kidney troubles made me so miserable that I was hardly able to work. A friend told me of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and I found them just as represented. They restored my health to me, and I think they are a wonderful medicine."

The marked success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Constipation, Headache and Stomach Weakness make them a family requisite. 25 cts. a box.

THE SCREEN LAW IS IN OPERATION

Saloon Keepers Generally Are Obeying the Provisions of the Ordinance.

THEIR PROGRAM CARRIED OUT

Guthrie, Walsh and Devine Cited to Appear Before the Mayor for Defying the Law—Crowds Watched Eagerly for Developments.

Chief Thompson and Officer Morris last evening made the rounds of a number of the uptown saloons, for the purpose of ascertaining how well the new ordinance was being observed.

As had been anticipated the law was being generally observed and no arrests were made. In the Midway a large crowd had congregated, expecting to witness a wholesale raid of all the places in that vicinity. They were disappointed, as nothing of the sort occurred.

A number of the uptown saloonists were put to considerable inconvenience, as the arrangement of the interior of the places would not permit of any radical changes in the architecture on short notice. At one place the proprietor nailed up a partition door communicating with the restaurant at the rear, and patrons were compelled to enter the dining room from the alley.

As had been previously arranged, A. R. Guthrie, J. C. Walsh and D. A. Devine were notified at 10 o'clock last night to appear at city hall at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at which time the first steps will be taken in the three test cases to be handled by the three gentlemen.

Solicitor Gaston and Mayor Davidson visited two of the places this morning and made examinations of the interior arrangement of the rooms.

MAN AGAINST THE HORSE.

A RACE WITH $10 WAGERED AGAINST THE ANIMAL.

The Victor Was Walter Young And He Now Owns the Horse.

An exciting race took place in Calhoun's addition, East End, Sunday afternoon between a man and a horse.

Walter Young and Bert Shook, two young men of that part of the city, met on the road, and in the course of a conversation, Shook, who was riding a horse, remarked that it was a very speedy animal. Young did not agree with him, and finally a wager was made. Young proposed a bet of $10 against the horse that he could beat the speeder out in a hundred yards. He was to pace off the distance and go on foot, while Shook was to ride the horse.

The affair was pulled off very quietly, and very few knew that it had taken place. The contest was easily won by Young, who now owns the horse.

THE PULLING MATCH CASE.

SQUIRE ROSE HEARS THE SUIT INVOLVING $100.

Stakeholder Still Has It—Justice's Decision Not Yet Announced.

The case of John Nisson versus Lyman Rinehart was heard in the court of Justice J. N. Rose yesterday afternoon.

Rinehart is charged in the affidavit with having in his possession $100 stake money on a wager, and it is alleged that he "did secrete and convert to his own use the said $100 with intent to defraud."

The evidence submitted by a number of witnesses on both sides was gone over, and when it was finished the justice reserved his decision. The verdict will probably be rendered this evening.

FIGHT FOR CONTROL

BETWEEN FACTIONS IN THE BELL SCHOOL DISTRICT.

The Board Still Against the Birches, But They Are Hopeful.

The two factions which have been at loggerheads in the Bell school district, St. Clair township, since Tom Croft, who taught the fall term last year, thrashed the Birch boys, are still fighting for the control of the school district.

It will be remembered that Croft was reinstated as teacher after his acquittal of the charge brought by the father of the Birch boys. This so intensified the feeling that the Birch element determined to gain control of the board.

The district is controlled by one director and two sub-directors. Yesterday the annual election was held and a sub-director elected from the Birch supporters. He is S. A. Rambo and defeated J. M. Davis by a vote of 24 to 11. However, the board is still in control of the other element, but the Birch people hope to change this by another year.

FIRST BANQUET OF THE KNIGHTS

Columbians' Evening of Feasting and Enjoyment at Carroll Club Rooms.

SUPERB PROGRAM PRESENTED

The Objects of the Organization And What It Is Doing for Members Explained By Clergymen Present. Speech By Hon. P. A. Gavin.

The first annual banquet of the Knights of Columbus of this city was held last evening, and was one of the most pleasing social functions in a long time.

It was held in the spacious rooms of the Carroll club, in the Foutts building, and the arrangement was perfect. The club rooms proper were used to accommodate the large crowd while the program was being rendered. Sir Knight T. J. Duffy announced the various numbers, which were ren-

and amid a mass of beautiful ferns and palms was seated the Mandolin club. It rendered a number of choice selections during the progress of the banquet.

At the center of the arch near the ceiling was a handsome picture, portraying the scene just preceding the landing of Columbus. Just below on the rostrum had been placed an easel on which stood a life-size portrait of Pope Leo XIII. To the right and left of this had also been placed easels containing the likenesses of Fathers Carroll and Smythe. The whole went to make up a scene which was very beautiful.

The banquet tables, three in number, were extended the entire length of the room, and when all were seated almost every chair was occupied.

T. J. Duffy acted as toastmaster, M. E. Miskall having been detained at home by illness in his family.

After a brief address by Mr. Duffy, in which he outlined the aims and objects of the Knights of Columbus, together with their hope for the future, he introduced Father Halligan, of Wellsville, who responded to the toast "The Church." The reverend father's effort was an excellent one, but space forbids an extended report.

Deputy Grand Knight J. H. Grafton responded to "Charity," and although

LONG MARCH FULL OF PERILS

Men Died of Starvation on the Way. Description of an Early Morning Attack By the Insurgents Which Caused a Hasty Hunt for Cover.

James E. Taylor, one of the East Liverpool boys in Uncle Sam's service in the Philippines, sends an interesting account of his experiences in the recent campaigns. He writes that he prefers to tell his story through the columns of the News Review, rather than write personal letters to his many friends here. His letter, which gives an account of a campaign that was full of excitement and peril, is as follows:

On the 4th day of September, 1899, Troop B, of the Fourth regiment of United States cavalry, received orders from headquarters to be ready to leave our barracks the next morning at 7 o'clock for the north line, to reinforce Gen. Lawton. Of course, we knew what that meant. It was to be about five months of hard fighting. The morning of the 5th found us all out of bed at 3 o'clock. We fed our horses, ate our breakfast, and left our barracks at ten minutes of 7. We marched to the railroad depot, loaded our horses on the train, and began a trip by rail which ended at 4 o'clock p. m. at a large town called San Fernando, P. I. There we remained until October 11, when we left for San Isidro, passing while enroute through the towns of Santa Anna, Arayat, and Cabiao. We had three fights before we arrived at San Isidro on October 20. Then we rested until October 27. We then marched to the bridge near Santa Rosa, twelve miles distant, where we had a fight which lasted about two hours. The loss to us was one killed and one wounded. The insurgent loss, as near as we could find out, was 15 killed and 25 wounded. We then made camp for the night and after placing a guard around the camp, lay down to have a much-needed sleep.

The next morning we continued our march to Santa Rosa, twelve miles. There we rested until October 31, then resumed our march toward Talavera. Before reaching the latter place we engaged the insurgents in two skirmishes, which lasted about one half hour each. From October 31 till November 8 we rested at Talavera. During that time we engaged in four small skirmishes dismounted.

On the night of November 7, we had what we have always called the night attack at Talavera. We were quartered in an old stone church, which had the ends of the building torn away, leaving nothing but the roof and two walls standing. Our horses were all tied to a picket line at one end of the church, in direct line with the building. Our kitchen fire was at the other end of the building, but off to one side from the church.

Our chaplain, who was with us, held a meeting the same night and said to us: "Boys, to-morrow I think, from the report the scouts bring in, we will have trouble." When the meeting was over, we all spread our blankets upon the floor—a very wet bed—and went to sleep. About 3:30 in the morning, the Mauser bullets began to sing around our ears. At the same time the word was passed among us that the insurgents had attacked us, and that we were to fall in line to repel the attack. I was troop cook at the time, and was told not to go on the firing line, but to stay with the horses and to have breakfast ready for the men by 6 o'clock in the morning.

As all good soldiers will do, I obeyed the orders. The troop, in the meantime, had fallen in line and had gone upon the firing line. The firing had

SLAV MURDEROUSLY ASSAULTED BY A FELLOW COUNTRYMAN.

Michael Baile, a Slav, employed at the Walker sewer pipe works, was assaulted by John Federish, a fellow countryman, at 6:30 this morning, and may die.

The story, as told by the injured man, is that he was on his way to work and was met by Federish, who, without a moment's warning, walked up to him and, laying hold of his neck, with one hand drew a heavy piece of iron from his pocket and struck Baile repeatedly over the top of the head. According to Baile's statement the assailant had no provocation whatever for the act, as they had never had any trouble.

The man knew he was badly injured and boarded a street car came to this city. He got off at the Diamond and attracted the attention of James McKenna, who conducted him to the office of Justice McLane, after he heard the man's story.

It was about 8:15 when the 'squire reached his office and the complaint was only partially completed when Baile became very ill. He seemed to be in a stupor, and the justice had him removed to the office of Dr. Norris, on Sixth street. His injuries were of a serious nature, consisting of four very ugly wounds on the top of his head.

The physician dressed the wounds and made the injured man as comfortable as possible.

He was not able to go to the office of Justice McLane to sign the document, however, and it was necessary to take the papers to him. Just before noon the man fell into a deep sleep, remaining in that state for several hours. Late this afternoon Constable Miller took him home.

Constable Miller went to Walker this morning and arrested Federish. He is in jail to await the result of his victim's injuries.

DAUGHTER VS. FATHER

She Sues for $1,336 for Services in Caring for Her Aged Parent.

Lisbon, April 9. — (Special.)—A jury was empaneled this afternoon in the case of Nettie Ramsey against Andrew Ramsey. The plaintiff is the daughter of the defendant, who is aged. She wants a judgment for $1,336 for doing general housework and keeping house for him from December, 1891, to November, 1900.

She claims he promised to pay her and says her services were worth $150 a year. The defense claims that she performed the work as a daughter and that no agreement as to pay existed. The parties live about two miles from Lisbon.

EAST END. NOT ON MISSIONARIES

Does Blame Rest For the Recent
Boxer Uprising In the Chinese Empire.

REV. C. W. SWAN INTERVIEWED

Long Acquaintance With the Chinese
People Enables Him to Give an Interesting View of the Situation.
Chinese Govern China Best.

Rev. C. W. Swan, who has just late-ly returned from China, where he has been engaged in missionary work for the past seven years, is authority for some very interesting information concerning missionary work and its connection with the late Boxer troubles in China.

Mr. Swan was stationed at Lien Chow, about 300 miles northwest from Canton. He was called to the coast with other missionaries when the Boxer trouble broke out, but he is very familiar with the nature of the organization and the cause of the trouble.

He states that the Boxers are a secret organization composed largely of the lower classes, and that they extend over the entire Chinese territory. It was their purpose to have the recent outbreak begin simultaneously at different points all over the kingdom, and their object was to drive all foreigners, both missionaries and others, out of the country.

They had been secretly stirring up the anti-foreign feeling for several years, and it became so intense in northern China that the leaders were unable to restrain the masses until the time set for the outbreak to occur. In his opinion, many missionaries owe their lives to the fact that the trouble commenced when it did. "The cause," says Mr. Swan, "of the anti-foreign feeling is the encroachment of the foreign powers and the acquisition of Chinese territory, and not the work of the missionaries, as has been alleged in this country. The feeling against the foreigners is very intense, and as the Chinese are an impulsive people, trouble can be stirred up very quickly; but as in the case of the Boxer troubles, it usually dies out as quickly as it is stirred up." When asked his opinion concerning the indemnities now being demanded by the foreign powers, Mr. Swan said:

"The government of China has already rebuilt a large number of missionary buildings that were destroyed, and that government is perfectly willing to pay a reasonable indemnity to each of the foreign governments, but the revenues of the Chinese government do not amount to much more than the expenses, and under the present conditions, it will be absolutely impossible for their government to pay the enormous indemnities now demanded by the foreign powers. I believe, with a good many others, that China is best governed by the Chinese, and I should not like to see the territory be divided and pass under foreign control. The Chinese are not a progressive people, but when once they test the advantages of a modern invention, it would be as hard to persuade them to discard it as it is to induce them to begin it. This has proven to be the case with the telegraph and with the very few railroads that are now in operation."

Mr. Swan states that the Chinese appreciate the friendship of the United States, and show less animosity toward Americans than any other nationality. He states that many magazine articles on the Chinese question are printed in the Chinese papers and read throughout the empire.

Buying Diamonds—Reluctant About Issuing Manifesto.

Manila, April 9.—General MacArthur says it is impossible to make a statement concerning Aguinaldo now. It is possible that Aguinaldo will soon be removed from the Malacanang palace to a large house, with pleasant grounds, in a fashionable quarter of the city, which is being renovated and prepared for occupancy.

Aguinaldo is purchasing diamonds and other jewelry. He continues to receive certain visitors, but newspaper correspondents are excluded. It is said that the manifesto which Aguinaldo has been preparing has not yet been signed, and it is added that Aguinaldo is reluctant to comply with the conditions.

General Sandico, a former member of Aguinaldo's cabinet, has surrendered to the American authorities at Cabanatuan, in the province of New Ecija. He has a bad record and may be tried.

BRIDE DIED IN HIS ARMS.

Sad Experience of a Chicago Detective In Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, April 9.—Detective Fred Hayes, of Chicago, and Miss Jeanette Evans, of Chicago, were married here under distressing circumstances. Miss Evans came here about a week ago to be present at the wedding of her sister in this city. She was taken suddenly ill with the grip, and it was thought she would die on Saturday. Hayes was notified and arrived Sunday. A marriage license was secured Monday and the ceremony performed while Miss Evans was on her death bed. The scene with the weeping family about the bed was very pathetic.

Soon after the ceremony Miss Evans began sinking. The bride died about 1:30 p. m. The ceremony was performed about 6 a. m. When she was sinking about 1 o'clock he took her in his arms and soon after she breathed her last.

FOR MONUMENTS TO HEROES.

Commission to Select Sites Met In Washington.

Washington, April 9.—The commission appointed to select sites in Washington for the proposed monuments to Grant, Sheridan and McClellan met here at Secretary Root's office. The latter, by virtue of his position, is chairman of each commission. Associated with the secretary of war and Senator Wetmore are General Greenville Dodge, on the Grant commission; General Corbin, on the Sheridan commission, and General Ruggles, on the McClellan commission. No decisions have yet been reached, but Secretary Root said the proposed site for the Grant monument in the space south of the state, war and navy building, was still looked upon with favor. The McClellan statue, it is said, probably will be erected in the circle at the intersection of Florida and Massachusetts avenues, and that to Sheridan in the small park at the intersection of E street northwest with Pennsylvania avenue, in front of the National theater.

Burglars Frightened Away.

Medina, O., April 9.—Two burglars, who attempted to rob the private bank of S. W. Clark, at Spencer, were frightened away before securing any money. They left burglar tools after them.

Threatened Shotgun Quarantine.

New Castle, Pa., April 9.—A quarantine will be established against the towns of Sandy Lake and Hendersonville, north of here, where 15 cases of smallpox exist. The state board of health was notified, and a shotgun quarantine is threatened unless prompt measures are taken by that body. Health Officer William Vance has been appealed to, and will consult the state authorities by wire as to the proper course for him to pursue.

NEW TRUST OFFICERS

A Cleveland Newspaper Makes Some Assertions as Regards the Selections.

WALKER IN CHARGE OF MILLS

Palmer to Have Charge of Sales. Gayley to Have Charge of Docks and Mines—Pennsylvania Steel Co. Bought Iron Ore Interests.

Cleveland, April 9.—The Leader today was expected to say:

Information was obtained from several sources here today that the United States Steel corporation had appointed Mr. Gayley, of the Carnegie company, as first vice president in charge of docks and mines; W. R. Walker, metallurgical engineer for the American Steel and Wire company, as second vice president, in charge of the operation of mills, and W. P. Palmer, president of the American Steel and Wire company, as third vice president, in charge of sales. The same sources are authority for the statement that the various companies absorbed into the United States Steel corporation will maintain separate organizations as heretofore, with the policies of the various departments being dictated by one of the three gentlemen mentioned, whose headquarters will be in New York. The matter of taking care of the fleet has not been fully decided, but general supposition now is that the steel trust will select a manager from its own ranks, instead of accepting the services of a middleman, as has been the supposed policy.

New York, April 9.—The Herald was expected to say today:

"In an effort to fortify its position against the United States Steel corporation, the Pennsylvania Steel company has purchased for cash the entire $5,000,000 worth of stock of the Spanish-American Iron company. It is understood that the transaction involved a sum of between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000.

"The Spanish-American Iron company, of which Charles F. Rand is president, has since 1895 been shipping ores to this country from Cuba, mining about 325,000 tons a year. The Pennsylvania Steel company, which uses about 1,000,000 tons a year, has been taking practically all the Spanish-American concern's product, and has now bought it outright so as to have an important source of ore supply in its hands.

The Spanish-American concern owns the Leica and Magdelema groups of mines not far from Santiago de Cuba, and the Providencia, Berraco and Fausto groups, which are being developed. Their property includes the line of railroad from the mines to the sea and about four and one-half miles; the entire seaport town of Daiquiri, with its harbor and the steel loading pier extending into Daiquiri bay. The present purchase comprises about 20 mining claims and 5,000 acres of land."

REAL GAINSBOROUGH PORTRAIT.

Agnew So Admitted—Denied Some Assertions.

Liverpool, April 9.—C. Moreland Agnew, upon his arrival here on the steamer Etruria, admitted that he had the Gainsborough portrait of the Duchess of Devonshire.

Mr. Agnew said the statement to the effect that "Pat" Sheedy had anything to do with the recovery of the Gainsborough picture of the Duchess of Devonshire are not true, and that he, Mr. Agnew, did not pay money in America. The bill for the detective work in the United States will be paid through Scotland Yard.

"The papers are filled with many misleading statements concerning the Gainsborough," added Mr. Agnew. "I went to America with many misgivings, after so many years of search. When I reached New York I found it necessary to proceed to Chicago, where I met the Pinkertons. By the most natural process in the world the portrait was turned over to me by them. The simple statement that it had been recovered in one of the western states was in accordance with instructions from Scotland Yard. "So far as I am concerned, the history of the picture during its detention for a quarter of a century is as much a mystery as it is to the rest of the world. The portrait is in as perfect a state of preservation as any Gainsborough I ever saw. All stories implicating a former American millionaire, who is now destitute, are new to me. All I know is that the picture was given me in Chicago, and that it is the original portrait."

Railroading in Ireland.
A somewhat nervous English tourist touches for the genuineness of the following incident of Irish traveling: The train arrived some 20 minutes late at a small station, and the engine driver inquired of the station master, "Did the express go by yet, Tim?" "It did not," was the answer. There was in decision on the part of the engine driver for a moment when he cheerfully exclaimed, "Ah, well; we must chance it," as he blew the whistle and started off on the single line.—London Outlook.

Bring the Answer.

DR. CHALFANT RESIGNS

Will Leave Pastorate of Park Avenue Presbyterian Church, Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, April 9.—The Rev. Dr. George W. Chalfant offered his resignation as pastor of the Park Avenue Presbyterian church. The announcement struck the people of the large congregation like a clap of thunder out of a clear sky, as the congregation is entirely harmonious and greatly attached to Dr. Chalfant.

There were few dry eyes in the audience as the people began to realize the full portent of Dr. Chalfant's words. Following so soon after the resignation of Dr. Kumler, Dr. Chalfant's action has stunned the Presbyterianism of the East End. He is a pillar in the Pittsburg presbytery, and the discussion among the Presbyterian preachers revealed but one mind, that of the most profound regret, but accompanied with an expression of the most earnest hope that Dr. Chalfant will make his permanent home in this city, so that the presbytery may not be deprived of his invaluable services in all departments of church work.

Dr. Chalfant undertook to resign about five years ago, but the people put big blocks in the way, and in view of their unanimous and earnest desire he decided to remain a little longer. He now completes about 20 years as pastor of the Park Avenue church, and he says he deems this a fitting time to close his work. He kept his secret so well that not even the elders of his church knew of his contemplated action. He had intimated his desire to Dr. Kumler recently when congratulating Dr. Kumler on his wise course. He has been in the ministry over 40 years and was pastor of the Presbyterian church at Martins Ferry, in Ohio, about 20 years before coming to Pittsburg. He is the only pastor the large and influential Park Avenue church has had and he started in with a small membership. The present membership of the church is 600.

Since he came to the church he has built the present fine edifice, which is remarkably well equipped for all kinds of church work. The building has been repaired and improved several times.

Dr. Chalfant has been crowned several times with high honors. He was moderator of the synod of Pennsylvania at its meeting in Parkersburg about three years ago, and he has frequently been spoken of as a candidate for moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, but he never permitted the use of his name. He made a trip to China about two years ago and has been in demand since to make addresses on the subject. Two of his sons are missionaries in China and another son is pastor of the large Presbyterian church at Ashtabula, O. Another son is a lawyer in this city and one of the 10 elders in the Park Avenue church and leader of the choir.

To Keep Butter Sweet.

One can keep butter sweet a long time, even in a hot room where it is half melted, by keeping it covered with brine made by putting into boiling water all the salt it will take up. Then let it cool and pour over the butter. Meat may be preserved in the same way. To be sure, it will become rather salt, but when you wish to use it take it out of the brine the night before and lay it across two spoons or sticks to lift it from the bottom of the dish in which you wish to soak it and then cover it with fresh water. The salt will then settle out of the meat, and it will freshen nicely. You throw meat or fish into the bottom of a vessel and cover it with water, and it will freshen very little, for the salt does not fall out, but only to the lower side.

EXPANSION AT HOME.

An interesting sign of the times is seen in items like the following which appears in the Lisbon Patriot: "We really have great distress here now. It is caused by lack of dwelling houses. Many families cannot be housed at all; others have to live in one or two rooms." The paper goes on to state that a hundred new families are coming on account of the new pottery and that preparations must be made to receive them.

The form of distress complained of by our Lisbon contemporary is one that has its compensations and will speedily work out its own relief. It isn't the sort that prevailed during the Cleveland administration, when industrial towns had more demand for soup houses than for dwelling houses and when workers, instead of flocking in, trooped out if they could get the money to do so.

Scores of Ohio towns share in a greater or less degree the prosperity which appears to have struck our county seat. The columns of the News Review daily show the growth of East Liverpool; scarcely a day passes that the arrival of from one to half a dozen new families in the city is not chronicled. The scarcity of houses is so great that complaints are heard in every quarter. Dwellings are rented before they are finished; sometimes, indeed, before the foundations are laid. The growth of the town is almost phenomenal, considering that it is not the result of any fictitious boom, but is of the steady enduring sort.

And it is not Columbiana county alone which is enjoying the benefits of healthy expansion. All through eastern Ohio industrial communities are telling the same story. Down at Steubenville, for instance, where slowness has become proverbial, there has been an awakening and real estate holders are at last finding that their investments are profitable. Extensive building operations are in progress and houses for rent are in such demand as to make them more valuable than ever before. New industrial plants are building all along the Ohio valley; new coal territory is being bought up for development, while innumerable railroads are either projected or building.

Indeed, looking the whole field over, it becomes apparent that the prosperity which set in soon after the first inauguration of William McKinley as president bids fair to be increased and intensified during his second term. Workingmen as well as capitalists have abundant reason for rejoicing and turning to account the advantages now before them.

ONE PENALTY OF FAME.

Andrew Carnegie, who has preached many a sermon on the blessings of adversity, would now fain enjoy the blessings of obscurity. But he cannot, and his despair is almost comical. All Europe has heard of him and marveled at the manner of man he is. Last week he was discovered in a French fishing village, and, according to news dispatches, was "so besieged by delegates from all sorts of charities, schools and societies, who came

not only from France, but from England and every country in Europe, that he is seriously contemplating an early escape to the seclusion of his Scotch castle." The delightful little French resort has been made almost hateful to him because of the importunities of beggars of one sort and another. Even on his way across the sea he did not escape the gift-seekers. People found him out and tried to interest him in this or that philanthropic enterprise.

While all this must be annoying to a man seeking seclusion and healthful rest, Mr. Carnegie has invited it by his benefactions to the world. His position has its compensations, and there are few men who would not be glad to have millions to give away, even though they knew they must be subjected to an endless amount of needless advice as to how and where to give them. Obscurity is oftentimes valuable, but Mr. Carnegie, with all of his money, cannot purchase it, because his own generous nature has made the thing impossible. Those who have no millions can find some consolation in reflecting on the cares which poverty enables them wholly to escape.

THE FOOLS STILL LIVE.

The fools are not all dead yet. Some of them have money, and though they are soon parted from it, they get rid of it in a way that advertises their folly. Ithaca, N. Y., although the seat of a university, is not free from imbeciles with a taste for notoriety. One of these is a woman, if a dispatch from the Empire state city is to be believed. The story runs that Stella Miller's pet dog Fido died a few days ago; that an elegant casket was built for the dead dog and a soft, silken pillow was laid therein. An undertaker was there, dressed in the habiliments of woe and "weeping men and women"—here is where the proof comes in that fools abound even in classic Ithaca—"stood about the casket, which was adorned with costly flowers. The casket cost $35 and the silk cushion $152. A pianist furnished the music. A minister was called, but"—all honor to the minister—"he refused to officiate."

Isn't the whole story a nauseating evidence of perverted mentality, of sentimentalism gone mad? It is proper enough to show decent respect to a departed pet, and it may be that Fido was as worthy of a costly funeral as some bipeds who are honored with one. But the woman, who, living in a great city, where distress and poverty abound, could find no better use for $200 than to spend it on a dog's funeral seems to us a fit subject for a commission in lunacy.

The Populists are reported watching Tom L. Johnson, of Cleveland, to see if he is the right sort of presidential timber. When he lands in their party he will be in the proper place.

"Here's looking at you" is no longer the popular phrase among saloon habitués. There is an uncomfortable truth embodied in it.

The screen ordinance went into operation last night. Contrary to expectations, it did not decrease the number of arrests.

Unscreened drinks are quite as likely to have snakes in them as the other kind.

THE HOUSEWIFE'S WORST ENEMY.

Early in May the miller or moth fly begins to deposit eggs. As soon as they are hatched the moth worms begin feeding on the woollens and continue until they are full grown. They then spin themselves into cocoons and change, in them, to the miller or moth fly. This requires from six to eight weeks. To guard against moth, woollens should be packed away early in May or earlier if possible. Before putting away, sun, beat and brush thoroughly, then pack away with a liberal supply of moth balls or camphor. Woolen or furs so packed if free from eggs before putting away are practically moth proof. Price

ACTION FOR ALIMONY

DECIDED IN FAVOR OF MRS. WELLS, OF WELLSVILLE.

Washingtonville Marshal Sued for $500 Damages—Other Court Matters.

Lisbon, April 9.—(Special)—Mrs. Sarah M. Wells, of Wellsville, recently filed an action for alimony against Wesley C. Wells. Her case was heard in court this morning. Judge Hole held that by reason of the abandonment and non-support of the defendant, the wife is entitled to alimony. Sheriff Noragon has in his possession $170.25 belonging to the defendant, and was ordered by the court to pay it to the plaintiff.

Charles L. DeRodes, of Franklin Square, has entered suit for a divorce from Sylvia DeRodes, to whom he was married in November, 1898. The wife is charged with wilful absence and with disregard of marital duties. They have no children.

Marshal George Charlton, of Washingtonville, has been sued for false arrest by Irvin Cook, of that village. Cook claims he was arrested by Charlton last month, without cause or provocation, and kept locked up for over four hours. Charlton has been marshal since April, 1900, and William Dalrymple and J. D. Smith are his bondsmen. Cook wants $500 to pay for injury to his reputation.

There was a hearing in court this morning on the account of B. S. Ambler, receiver, in the case of H. Greiner & Son versus the Salem Church Organ company. The court approved and confirmed the account and made distribution of all the proceeds of the sale. The receiver was allowed $1,000 for his services.

The bar list for the April term of court was issued this morning and contains 328 civil cases. The criminal list is not yet completed.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Sarah E. Surles.

Miss Sarah E. Surles, nee Till, died at her home on the Calcutta road last evening, after a long illness. She was 42 years old and was born in Louisville, Ky. At 18 years of age she married Mr. Surles and has since resided here. She leaves a husband, but no children. Mrs. Surles was a valued member of the Presbyterian church. The funeral will be held on Wednesday from the family residence.

Maud Lyons.

Maud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyons, died of typhoid pneumonia at her home in Grant district, W. Va., early this morning. Miss Lyons was about 15 years of age, and was well known and highly respected. Funeral arrangements are not yet made.

George Barnish.

George Barnish died at his home on Prospect street this morning at 2 o'clock, of heart trouble. He was 49 years of age and was born in Burslem, Staffordshire, England. He had lived in this country about 24 years. He leaves a wife in this country and a mother in England.

Bryan Child.

A three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. John Bryan died at their home on Second street last night after a short illness with pneumonia. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Aloysius' church. Interment will be made at the Catholic cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Bentley.

Mrs. Margaret Bentley, aged 89 years, died at her home on Fairview street last night, death being caused by infirmities of old age. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment will be made at Spring Grove cemetery.

Fifty Years a Priest.

Father Halligan, of Wellsville, and several other priests from this locality will go to Tiffin on Wednesday, where they will assist in the celebration of the golden jubilee of Rev. Father Healey, of that city. The father has been in the ministry for 50 years, and the occasion will be fittingly celebrated. This is the first golden jubilee in the history of the diocese.

Will Make White Ware.

John Sant has received word that the Rapp Bros. pottery at Morton, Ill., will hereafter manufacture white ware. The plant has been making yellow and Rockingham ware.

SOUTH SIDE.

IT EXCITED CHESTER

A REPORT THAT THE ATOMIZER MAN WAS DEAD.

Instead, He Is Able to Be About His Business—Arrests Are Probable.

The report was current in Chester this morning that George W. Wood, the atomizer man, who was severely beaten by some of the clay hands at the Taylor, Lee & Smith pottery yesterday morning, had died from the effects of the injuries received, and that Deputy Sheriff O. O. Allison had been notified to place those connected with the affair under arrest. The fact that Sheriff C. F. Allison was also in town gave color to the story, and for a time considerable excitement prevailed.

The officers would say nothing about the matter, but it was soon learned that the report of the man's death was untrue. It is highly probable that arrests will be made, as the names of the guilty parties are known to the officers.

Mr. Wood's injuries consisted of bad bruises about the face and head, but he was not seriously hurt. He was able to be at work in East Liverpool today.

CHESTER ELECTION.

Much Interest Shown in the Coming Contest for Town Offices.

Much interest is being shown over the election of the first town officers in Chester, which will take place May 7. Robert Dunn is announced for mayor, and inquiry made among the residents would seem to indicate that he will receive a very large vote. So far no opposition is announced, though the friends of "Bud" Hilliard say he will come out later. Five councilmen are to be chosen, and although mention has been made of many suitable persons it is impossible to suggest the name of a probable candidate at this time.

The strongest fight is promised in the race for recorder. Thomas Bambrick, Frank Huff and John Marshall are all candidates; it is said, for this office. All three are well qualified to fill the position, and as the fight will not be conducted along party lines, the contest will no doubt be quite a lively one.

CHANGED HER MIND.

Miss Belle Johnson Did Not Poison Herself.

Miss Belle Johnson, who telephoned to Claud Figley yesterday, to come over immediately if he wished to see her alive, evidently changed her mind about taking laudanum, for she was visiting friends near Chester last evening.

Her lover relented after considering the matter and called on the lady yesterday, with the result that the taking of the laudanum was probably postponed indefinitely.

Park Improvements.

Engineer Smith and a force began tearing down the steps at the park this morning. They will be rebuilt in a more suitable style. Another carload of coaster and fountain material arrived this morning and work on these improvements is being pushed rapidly.

SOUTHSIDE AFFAIRS.

Eighth street has just been opened up from the river to the railroad.

Adam Clark has accepted a position as night inspector at the power house, and will begin his duties next Saturday.

The American Mechanics initiated one candidate at the meeting last night.

Work on the oil well on the Blazier farm is delayed by the loss of the tools. The well is expected in week after next.

T. R. Cunningham has leased the building used for school purposes to Rev. Mr. Phipps and wife, who will take possession next Monday.

ESCAPED BULLETS.

From First Page.

could prepare breakfast, built fires and started to work. I had a large can that held hard tack in it at one time, and was using it in which to make coffee. I had placed it upon four large stones, filled it with water and was making a fire under it, when the firing started once more and a Mauser bullet passed within six inches of my ear and passed clear through the coffee can.

I began to think that was too close for my comfort, so I moved about five feet to a large tree, intending to get my carbine and belt, which I had placed there, when another bullet imbedded itself in the tree about six inches from me. I lost no time getting myself under cover, and did not start any more breakfast until daylight.

Meantime the troop had returned from the firing line, bringing eight wounded natives, and had also left a large number lying dead upon the firing line. After we had eaten our breakfast of canned salmon, hard tack and coffee, without sugar or milk, we mounted our horses on our way to San Jose, twenty miles. Before reaching San Jose we had a sharp skirmish which resulted in having one man killed, two men wounded and six horses killed. This was on November 8. The next day we made a scouting trip to Puncan, 14 miles from San Jose, had two small fights, and returned to San Jose. On November 10 we left San Jose for Carranglan, a march of 28 miles, which we made in three days. During these three days we were crossing the largest and roughest mountains on the islands, and were having fierce fighting all of the way.

By the time we had stopped at Carranglan three days we had run short of rations and had to return to San Jose. Before we reached there, we had lost four men from starvation. On December 10, we left San Jose for Sybul. Before our arrival we had a very fierce fight for about two hours, our loss being one corporal and three privates killed, two corporals and five privates wounded. One corporal afterwards died from his wounds. We left Sybul November 11 for Bias-na-Bato, having a small skirmish on the way, with no loss.

We arrived at San Miguel on the 14th, and rested until the 18th of December, when we left for Pasay Cavalry barracks, arriving there at 12 o'clock the night of the 18th, stopping at Pasay until January 3, 1900.

December 19, 1899, a detail of 20 privates from Troop B joined Troop I, and left with Gen. Lawton for San Mateo. Gen. Lawton was brought back to his wife and children a corpse. He was one of the best of men, the bravest of soldiers, and was loved by all who knew him. January 6, when on the march, we had a skirmish near Muntin Lupa, and also one at Binan. We then kept on the move, having skirmishes at Camrona, at Silan and at Indan, arriving at and taking the town of Niac after a hard-fought battle on January 10, 1900. We resumed our march on the 14th, to San Tomas, San Pablo, and Tiaong and Rosario, arriving at Pasay January 16. We were very glad to see finished one of the hardest trips made on the islands by any American soldiers.

THE BALL AT WELLSVILLE

Drew a Large Crowd From This City. An East Liverpool Couple Won the Prizes.

The potters of Wellsville held a very enjoyable dance in city hall, in that city, last night. A large number of people from this city were present. The attendance was probably 700, nearly half of it being from East Liverpool. The whole affair passed off most enjoyably.

The prize waltzing contest was participated in by several East Liverpool couples, those taking the most prominent part being Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, Joseph Cassidy and Miss Julia Dunn, Charles Shenkel and Mrs. Terry and James Farish and Miss Maud Beach, of Lincoln avenue. The prizes, both handsome pieces of silverware, were awarded to Mr. Farish and Miss Beach.

Sewing Circle to Be Formed.

The ladies of the First Presbyterian church will organize a sewing circle in the basement of the church tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. Every lady member of the congregation is expected to attend. Social enjoyment, as well as work for the missionary cause, will be the objects of the organization.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Miss Josephine Croxall delightfully entertained her school friends at her home on Washington street this afternoon.

The Leiderkranz Singing society held a very enjoyable dance in their rooms on Broadway last night and it was largely attended.

CHOICE LOTS FOR SALE.

In the Beautiful New Addition to Chester, W. Va.

That beautiful tract of land lying immediately east of Third street and north of Carolina avenue is now being platted by J. E. McDonald and is ready for the market. This property is conceded to be the choicest property in that rapidly growing city, just incorporated and containing 962 people. This property is just two squares east from the Ohio river bridge and five minutes' ride by street cars from Diamond. The prices for lots in this addition are going to be put lower and the terms such as will accommodate all.

Persons contemplating acquiring homes cannot afford to miss this opportunity.

For further information call on or address J. E. McDonald, East Liverpool, Ohio. 255-1f

"Private John Allen."

Once in a while the author of a play succeeds in catching the exact atmosphere and the result is a brilliant success. Lee Arthur, the author of "Private John Allen," the new play in which Charles B. Hanford appears this season, has an advantage in writing of the south. He is himself a southern man. His types are not mere sketches. The high-minded orator and statesman, John Allen, the Hon. Alex. Lemee, Major Wasworth, Colonel Nat Stone, "Judge" Billy Wassom, "Uncle Si," the faithful negro servant; the sweet and womanly Ruth Blackman, and indeed all the characters are pictures which Mr. Arthur has transcribed from the pages of early memory. This excellent attraction will be the offering at the Grand on next Thursday evening.

The Coon Hunting Club And Its Exploits—Leaves From Reporters' Note Books.

Elmer Dornan, Will Messer, Alf Moore and Clark Cronin, all enterprising youths of Chester, W. Va., met last Thursday evening and formed an organization to be known as the Chester Coon Hunting club, whose object was to "hunt, buy and sell and deal exclusively in coon-hides, for profit, etc." They did not apply for any charter, as they had concluded to keep a good thing to themselves.

It was arranged to take the first hunt on Friday night. These four zealous hunters, together with a pack of about 18 dogs, made up of pugs, scotch-terriers and mastiffs, left Chester at about 9 o'clock to make their first hunt "for profit"—and coons, "I'll bet a chew of Five Brothers for the whole crowd," said Clark, "that we have seven coons by the time we get back." "I'll bet three balls of popcorn that we have eight of them," put in Alf, and the other two offered to gamble even more recklessly on the result.

By the time the boys had reached Hookstown all the merry feeling had worn off and Clark had reduced his guess to two coons, while Alf still held out for three. They started eastward and by the time they had reached Hookstown all the merry felling was gone. They returned homeward without coons, but fortune was destined to throw at least one animal in their way. Shortly before they reached the upper end of Chester the dogs set up a terrific barking. They had gathered in a circle around a small black animal that did not seem inclined to move very fast. "It's a whopper. Let me get a chance at him," yelled Cronin, as he ran forward and leaped on the animal with his boots. The coon happened to be a skunk, but Clark did not discover the fact until it was too late. His father found it out, however, and Clark had to reside in the coalhouse for a time. Alf is looking for a lost hat, while the other two hunters feasted on tobacco and popcorn, in the "club room" of the now defunct Chester Coon Hunting society.

Several prominent East Enders, haven't yet got over laughing about a list which a certain ward healer made out during the campaign which preceded the primaries. The would-be politician went to one of the candidates and told him he knew of at least 20 men whose votes could be purchased. The candidate had no idea of going into the boodling business, but to draw out the ward man he asked: "About how much do you think it would take to buy them?" "You can get every one of them for a drink of whisky," "All right," returned the candidate, "give me a list of the names, and I'll look into the matter." The list was made out, and when the candidate studied it he laughed. Then he showed it to some of his friends and they laughed. Growing bolder, he showed it to some of the men whose names were on it and they smiled sickly smiles. The list included the names of some of the most prominent men in the city. There were business men, professional men and church members—men who would no more touch a drink than they would murder. The ward healer who made it out got neither employment nor money from the man he made it for.

A well known ex-reporter and editor said today: "I hope the base ball men will succeed in finding out after a time what Pitcher 'Win' Mercer's name really is. It is no more William Barclay Mercer than mine is Simon Johnson. His name is George Bartley Mercer. I have it on the best of authority, for his mother, whom I interviewed after 'Win' became a celebrity, told me so. The Bartley comes from the mother's side of the house. He was born in Ohio. How he got the 'Win' matters not; but his front name, with all respect to those who assume to know, is George. Ask him and see if it isn't. It strikes me that would have been the proper way to find out, before writing so much about it."

THE KAYLOR MEETINGS.

Interest Grows as the Close Draws Near.

Evangelist A. H. Kaylor has entered upon the fourth and last week of his meetings in the First United Presbyterian church with increased interest on the part of both speaker and hearers. This was manifested last night in the large and attentive audience which filled the church, and in the deep earnestness with which the evangelist uttered his message. His theme, the full, free and earnest invitation of the gospel (Rev. 22:17), was an inspiring one. It gave opportunity to show the infinite willingness of God to save, the many agencies He employs to lead men to decision, and the reasonableness as well as duty of man to respond to the invitation of the gospel.

The word so earnestly preached was not spoken in vain, as many in the audience indicated their desire to lead the Christian life, some of whom were led to decide to do so. There was no service this afternoon on account of the sessions of Presbytery in the church. Meeting this evening and each evening during the week. Readers are cordially invited.

Cancer Cured.

Dr. J. W. Gardner, of East Liverpool, O., has discovered in the last year a new remedy for the cure of external cancer. Absorption is the modus operandi. No knife, no caustic, no blood, no pain. My last case of cancer of the scalp was cured in 27 days. Treatment of cancer is largely in the hands of mountebanks. Hence the saying goes, no cure for cancer. It is not true. Thousands upon thousands have passed to the great beyond that should have been cured, and would, had my new absorbent remedy been known. The people delay going to see the doctor because they do not know where to go.

Come and see me. This is much better than writing. If you write, give age, location, advancement, state whether tumor or open cancer, how large and whether suppuration has commenced. I hold a diploma from one of the best colleges in the U. S. Have practiced medicine for 48 years. 255-h

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT QUERY

Formal Announcement of Death of Representative Cotter Made In the House—Committee Appointed to Attend the Funeral.

Harrisburg, April 9.—A resolution was offered in the house last night by Mr. Corey, of Luzerne, requesting Attorney General Elkin and Secretary of Internal Affairs Latta to inform the house not later than April 17 whether any applications were filed in or warrants granted by the internal affairs department since Jan. 1, 1901, to Albert D. Boyd, Robert E. Umbel, Edward Willson Boyd, Samuel P. Boyd, Wallace H. Miller, Frank M. Fuller, William E. Crow, Charles H. Seaton, Marling G. Miller, O. R. Bromfield, Josiah W. Crow, H. M. Kephart, Woods N. Carr, John J. Collier, Lee Smith and Lewis F. Arensburg, or any of them, for public lands of the commonwealth in beds of rivers or minerals thereunder, and if so whether any such warrants were authorized or issued by direction of the board of property, and if so, by what authority and what act of assembly. The resolution lies over one day under the rules.

Mr. Palm offered the following concurrent resolution, which was referred to the law and order committee: That a commission of five be appointed, two from the senate and three from the house, to inquire into the subject of capital punishment with a view to ascertaining its effect toward the repression of crime. This commission shall investigate the subject in the different states of the Union, as well as in foreign countries, and report to the next legislature. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation for their services, but shall be allowed for postage, stationery, etc., a sum not to exceed $300.

Mr. Bliss, of Delaware, offered a resolution, which was adopted, directing the secretary of the commonwealth to publish 25,000 copies of the state game laws.

Mr. Harris, of Clearfield, offered a concurrent resolution, which was adopted, that a commission consisting of nine persons learned in the law be appointed by the governor to examine the corporation laws of the commonwealth and the decisions of the supreme and superior courts and to draft and report to the next legislature a general and comprehensive law regulating the incorporation and management of corporations, making as little a change as possible in the provisions of the existing laws, the members of the commission to receive no compensation for their services or mileage, but may be allowed in the general appropriation account not more than $5,000 for necessary expenses.

Mr. Dixon, of Elk, made a formal announcement of the death of Representative P. R. Cotter, of McKean, whose funeral will take place this afternoon at his late home at Eldred. A resolution was adopted that a special session of the house be held on the evening of April 17 to take suitable action on the death of Mr. Cotter and Representative William F. Stewart, of Philadelphia. A resolution was also adopted that a committee of nine be appointed to attend Mr. Cotter's funeral, and that a committee of five be appointed to prepare resolutions expressing the feelings of the legislature on Mr. Cotter's death. The following committee was appointed to attend the funeral:

Messrs. Bayne, of McKean; Baker, of Warren; Blumle, of Cameron; Fierth, of Wayne; Brown, of Clarion; Mayne, of Lehigh; Brennen, of Wayne; Moyer, of Lehigh, and Myers, of Cumberland.

The committee on resolutions follow: Messrs. Dixon, of Elk; Mayne, of Lehigh; Koontz, of Somerset; Cooper, of Delaware, and Ikeler, of Columbia.

M. E. CONSTITUTION.

Matter Under Discussion at New York Preachers' Meeting.

New York, April 9.—The Methodist preachers' meeting was chiefly devoted to an informal discussion of the proposed new constitution for the Methodist Episcopal church. The various conferences throughout the country are now voting on the amended constitution. The reverend Dr. J. M. Buckley was strongly opposed to the admission of women to the general conference. The Rev. Dr. Thomas B. Neely spoke in a vein similar to that of Dr. Buckley. Dr. S. F. Upham favored the adoption of the new constitution. President R. S. Pardington, of the New York East conference, was elected president.

TO SAVE CHILDREN

The Rev. Richard W. Lewis Has Resigned as Pastor to So Devote His Time.

Denver, Colo., April 9.—The Rev. Richard W. Lewis, pastor of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, described in detail a vision under the spell of which he tendered his resignation to the astonished congregation. In the vision he saw huge waves dashed by a terrible gale against the church, in which his people were gathered. A child was struggling in the angry waters outside. Facing almost certain death a man plunged into the sea and brought the little one to land.

Mr. Lewis has determined to devote the rest of his life to saving children. The vision confirmed him in a purpose upon which he has been brooding for years. He has been very successful in church work and his parishioners are averse to accepting his resignation, but feel that it is useless to remonstrate.

A CONVICT ESCAPED.

Fled From West Virginia Penitentiary—Maybe Crossed into Ohio.

Wheeling, April 9.—It came out that Joseph Green, a United States prisoner at the West Virginia penitentiary at Moundsville, had escaped in a daring manner Saturday night, and although bloodhounds have been placed on his trail, he has escaped by crossing the river into Ohio. Green placed a "dummy" in his cell, which deceived the guard, and in the meantime he secreted himself in one of the shops, and later climbed the outer wall and let himself down with a rope. The bloodhounds were placed on the trail and only lost the scent at the point below Moundsville where Green crossed into Ohio.

DROWNED HERSELF.

Minister's Daughter Commits Suicide at New Brighton.

Beaver Falls, April 9.—Miss Agnes Bristow, daughter of the Rev. T. J. Bristow, of New Brighton, in a moment of insanity, caused by sickness, jumped into the Beaver river and was drowned. The young woman was a stenographer and had been ill for some time.

Miss Bristow was 28 years of age and had a fine education. Her sister, Mabel, is a teacher in the Porto Rico schools, and her father was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Somerset, Pa.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Finishing up Reports—The various city officials are today putting the finishing touches to their annual reports.

Licensed to Wed—John Kegel, of East Liverpool, and Anna Schroeder, of Pittsburg, got a marriage license in the latter city yesterday.

Taylor to Be Orator—Hon. R. W. Taylor will be the orator at the graduation exercises of the East Liverpool high school, to be held Friday evening, May 31.

Many Went to the Dance—The Salineville base ball club held a benefit dance at Salineville last night and a large number of people from this city were in attendance.

Condition Critical—Mrs. Hinneman, a respected resident of Gardendale, who has been very ill with typhoid pneumonia for several days, is not improving and grave fears are entertained for her recovery.

Attending Rebecca's Meeting—Mrs. J. E. Anderson left this morning for Cincinnati, where she will represent this district at the fourteenth annual assembly of the Daughters of Rebecca, which will be in session for several days, commencing this evening.

Died—Mrs. Sarah E., wife of C. E. Surleg, at 8:30 p. m., April 8, 1901. Funeral from the family residence on the Calcutta road on Wednesday, April 10, at 2 p. m. Interment at Riverview cemetery. Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

Collected Almost $1,000—The collections at St. Stephen's church Sunday amounted to about $1,000. Sunday night the house was filled to its fullest capacity, and in the morning there were 205 communicants. This is the largest number of communicants ever present and the largest collection ever taken up in this church.

For Appomattox Day—A few additional features have been added to the entertainment to be given at Grand Army hall this evening in memory of Appomattox day. Mrs. Good will render a solo entitled "A Dream of Paradise." The Acme male quartet have been engaged to sing. Prof. and Mrs. Phillis will sing and Miss Maggie Harrison has consented to render a solo.

Lutheran Mission Meeting—Rev. J. G. Reinartz left today for Monaca to attend a meeting of the central mission committee of the Pittsburg synod of the German Lutheran church. The committee is meeting for the purpose of making preparations for the reception of Missionary A. Shade, who will soon return from India, where he has been doing missionary work. Arrangements will be made for the meeting of the Central Mission League, which will be held in June.

PRESBYTERY IN SESSION

Steubenville District United Presbyterians Met And Organized.

The Steubenville district U. P. presbytery is in session in the First U. P. church today. The opening session was held last evening with a large attendance. Organization was effected by the choice of Rev. W. B. Campbell, of Calcutta, as moderator and Joseph Buchanan, of Steubenville, as clerk. After the organization, presbytery adjourned from the basement and listened to the preaching of Evangelist Taylor in the auditorium.

This morning considerable routine business was disposed of, and a trial sermon was preached by Bert Chambers, a student at the Allegheny seminary, from the text, "I Am the Door."

The Hot Water Cure.

Boarding House Keeper—A glass of hot water? What can the man want with a glass of hot water? He doesn't shave.

Cook—He wants to drink it.

"To drink it? Well, I never."

"Oh, all the boarders I'm sending for hot water now three times a day."

"Goodness me! What for?"

"Fur to drink. They call it the hot water cure. It beats all newfangled notions what come up."

"What does it cure?"

"Oh, they say it really cures everything just splendid."

"Thank fortune it's cheap. Give 'em all the hot water they want, Maria."

"Yes'm."

"So hot water is a great cure, is it? Well, I shan't let any of my boarders get ill for want of medicine. Just put another gallon of hot water in that oyster soap, Maria, and I think you'd better take out the oyster now. It might get too rich."—London Tit-Bits

The Happy Ass.

The chief beauty of the following poem is that it is both rhyme and blank verse—rhyme according to the spelling and blank verse according to the pronunciation:

Through twilight's gold I heard the wild ass bray
His low song, which resounded o'er the quay,
While he, well knowing that for joy he should
Favor in glee, kicked up the mossy mould,
And with the energy of lusty youth
Once more let off his everlasting mouth.
Which set on edge two polka dotted calves
Until they, too, opened wide their safety valves
And fled like me, and I flew like the wolf
Or e'en the hit ball in the game of golf.

Cure For Insomnia.

I suppose all of us are suffering from the invasion of electricity. My old friend Bounce, who was a victim of insomnia for 40 years, thinks he sleeps now better than any other man on earth. He lost his way in the Adirondacks and staid overnight in the cabin of a forester. His sleep was the deep sleep of a just man made perfect, and in the morning he found that he had not moved half an inch all night.

"It's the insulation," the forester insisted. "You city folks are killin' yourselves with contact. If you'll break the contact you'll be able to sleep and get your nerves back."

This matter of "contact" was finally explained to mean that our bedposts are in contact with the floors, the

floors with the walls and the walls with mother earth, so that whatever personal magnetism a man has in him goes away in the nighttime, leaving him like a log on his mattress. The forester had obtained four glass insulators from telegraph poles somewhere and screwed them on the posts of his guest bed, so that the electricity could not run away. Bounce the very day he got home insulated his bed, and from that moment to the present his insomnia has been banished. — New York Press.

Mrs. Isaac Dunham, a well-known lady of that place, writes: "I cannot praise Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills too much. They did for me what doctors and other medicines could not do. I was troubled with severe disorders of the kidneys and enlargement of the liver. My family doctor treated me the whole of last winter, but did not help me very much, so I gave him up and began using Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The result was simply wonderful. I am now strong and healthy again, thanks to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

EATON RAPIDS, MICH.

Mrs. Rose Chaffee, a business woman of Eaton Rapids, writes: "For a long time my system was in a terribly weakened state. Biliousness, severe indigestion and kidney troubles made me so miserable that I was hardly able to work. A friend told me of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and I found them just as represented. They restored my health to me, and I think they are a wonderful medicine."

The marked success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills with Backache, Kidney Trouble, Constipation, Headache and Stomach Weakness make them a family requisite. 25 cts. a box.
